'IF GUILTY' SAYS MOCK, 'GETHRO TOOL OF MEN HIGHER UP'

CORNELL FAVORITE FOR BIG BOAT RACE

CASCADILLA DEFEATS STONE'S CREW IN THE FIRST RACE ON CHARLES RIVER.

An enthusiastic crowd, with a large percentage of school boys and girls in gala attire, saw the Cascadilla School eight defeat the Stone School eight of Boston early this afternoon in a pretty race on the classic Charles. This was a preliminary skull to the big Harvard-Cornell varsity contest scheduled for 2:35 o'clock.

The Cascadillas won by 1¾ lengths in an attempt to gain upon their disappearing antagonists the Stone fellows put on a heroic spurt near the finish, and when they crossed the line, vanquished, one of the losing crew dropped his oar and toppled over in a faint.

The scene of the contest presented a pretty picture long before the start, the crowd gathering in anticipation for the most part of entering the big contest between the Varsity crews of Harvard and Cornell.

The weather, while somewhat hazy from the clouds that hung in the sky, was propitious. The wide stream, without a ripple, stretched along in Indian color. But on the banks for the entire distances of the course there was brightness in costume and spirits.

The gold and crimson and blue of many bannons floated from the hands of boys and girls. Laughter rang out and floated along the river. The bells of Watertown and Cambridge street side until automobiles were stopped and only those on foot were allowed in that thoroughfare in sight of the course.

School Race Was First.

The Cascadilla-Stone battle was the first one on the programme. The start was at Ivesfield street and the distance 1⅝ miles. The course was along the Beacon street side of the river.

There was a ten minutes delay in the start and it was 1:10 when the boys from the two schools got started. The Cascadillas got away in fine shape and in a few strong, long pulls they were three-quarters of a length ahead of their competitors.

The two boats kept along at about the same swing until they reached Exeter street, where the Stone boys made a brave effort to lessen the gap. They threw themselves back on the oars and succeeded in gaining a quarter of a length.

Ithicans Hold Their Lead.

That only seemed to encourage the Cascadillas, however, and they shot down the river like veterans. Two hundred yards from the finish the Ithicans were two lengths ahead and then the Boston boys made their last grand effort. They crept up a quarter of a length but could do no more.

At the Union Boat house, where the finish was made, was the Cornell contingent, and they gave their juvenile brothers a great cheer when they swung across the line victors by one and three-quarters lengths. The time was 8.15 4-5. The race was for the Carroll Cup.

PERKINS RELEASED; "NO CRIME," SAY JUDGES

APPELLATE COURT REVERSES DECISION OF JUSTICE GREENBAUM ON CAMPAIGN FUND.

NEW YORK, May 25.—George W. Perkins of J. Pierpont Morgan & Company, who was convicted by a jury in the court of general sessions of having committed an crime when he contributed the money of the policyholders of the New York Life Insurance Company to the Republican campaign funds. This was the decision of the appellate division of the Supreme Court which considered the case as brought up to it when Justice Green banm held Mr. Perkins for his act. Justice Greenbaum is reversed and Mr. Perkins was discharged from custody.

Perkins was charged with grand larceny in the first degree because of the payment of nearly $50,000 to the Republican National Committee in 1904. Each one of the judges of the appellate bench wrote separate opinions, but their general tenor is that there was no intent to commit a crime and therefore no crime had been committed.

SENATE SUSTAINS ITS VOTE FOR MONOPOLY

REFUSES TO RECONSIDER BILL BACKED BY SHOE MACHINERY AND BEEF TRUSTS.

After an hour's debate the Massachusetts Senate to-day decided in favor of monopoly as against anti-monopoly, as those familiar with the year's proceedings of that body felt certain it would. It refused, by a roll-call vote of 12 to 18, to reconsider the defeat of the anti-monopoly bill, aimed to put an end to the arbitrary methods of the Shoe Machinery Trust.

When this bill was before the committee there also appeared against it arepresentative of the Beef Trust, who bitterly would oppose his companies if passed, so that it had the opposition of powerful interests.

This is the bill regarding which each shoe manufacturer in the State received a letter from the Shoe Machinery Trust, ordering him to use pressure to make his Senator vote against it.

Taylor Is Sarcastic.

When Senator Clark's motion to reconsider yesterday's vote was called from the calendar Senator Taylor of Boston made a speech containing much brilliant sarcasm. "The demagogical legislators who dare to oppose this most philanthropic company will undoubtedly receive the punishment they deserve when they go to the polls next Fall," he said.

Senator Schofield urged reconsideration and the passage of the bill. "As I rode past the company's plant on my way home last night," he said, "I noticed the homes of the employes. Some of them live in houses set over the water, about as large as the desk of an honorable Senator. If this bill is passed I suppose they will have to sleep in the water, without the home."

A dozen manufacturers of Haverhill protested against the bill, and Senator Hagar read their letters and opposed the motion. Senator Pratt, himself a shoe manufacturer, defended the trust. He said he is perfectly satisfied with the treatment he receives from it.

Senator Cox of Essex called attention to the fact that two officials of the company came before the committee and lauded the company as "the most philanthropic in the world, its aim being to enable people everywhere to buy shoes at the lowest possible price. "I favor this bill," he said, "because it will help the company to accomplish this laudable motive."

Foes and Friends.

No eloquence could prevail over the arguments of the trust, however, and on a rising vote the motion to reconsidr was lost by 11 to 14. On a roll call the vote was 12 to 18. These are the Senators who voted against and for monopoly:

Yea—Burrell, Cassidy, Clark, Felker, Hill, Logan, MacLeod, Mellen, Schofield, Sutherland, Taylor, Walker—12.

Nays—Beck, Bullock, Chace, Chapin, Cummings, Cusick, Dean, Fairfield, Gurnhaul, Grosvenor, Harding, Hall, Hunter, Kyle, Nevin, Parker, Penny, Taft—18.

Paired—Yea, Cox of Essex, Mahoney, Reed, Stevens; nay, Converse, Gerrett, Hilton, Lane.

FOUR FISHERMEN DROWN.

ST. JOHN, N. B., May 25.—Word was received from Bathurst, N. B., yesterday that four fishermen were drowned at Maulbay, near Miscou, Gloucester county, N. B., on Tuesday afternoon. The men are, Casey, Arseneau and two Nonis.

Man Attacked in House Corridor Says if Assailant Is Guilty of Any Crime There Are Bigger Men Who Should Be Held Responsible for Alleged Bribery in Bucket Shop Bill Defeat.

Representative Jacob H. Mock, who was assaulted in the corridor of the House of Representatives by Representative Frank J. Gethro, whom he had accused of having attempted to bribe him, may take no further personal action against Gethro, leaving him to be dealt with by the House.

"IF GETHRO IS GUILTY OF WRONGDOING," SAID MR. MOCK TO-DAY AT THE STATE HOUSE, "I FEEL THAT HE IS ONLY A TOOL FOR OTHERS HIGHER UP."

Gethro apologized to the House to-day for his assault on Mock. Speaker Cole announced that the apology was received, which indicates that it will be placed upon the record. The House, under parliamentary practice, may take such action upon it as it wishes. It was the general impression of members who heard the Speaker's announcement that the reception of the apology was equivalent to its acceptance. Representative Mock was not present when the statement by Gethro was made.

As soon as the order of the day had been read, Representative Gethro rose to a question of personal privilege.

REGRETTED HASTY ACTION.

"Mr. Speaker," he said, "I desire to apologize to this House. Yesterday morning, having completely lost control of my temper, I struck, in the corridor of this house, a man. I desire to express my regret for my action. But, Mr. Speaker, in mitigation of my offence, I ask each member of this House to consider how he would have felt had he, absolutely innocent as I am, been charged with crime, as that man charged me. Again, Mr. Speaker, I wish to ask forgiveness of my colleagues for my offence."

Silence greeted this statement. There was no such outburst of applause as followed the personal privilege statement to the House of Representative Sulg when the latter charges first began to be current.

"The apology of the gentleman will be received by the House," said Speaker Cole, and Mr. Gethro resumed his seat.

It was some time after Gethro's speech that Representative Jacob H. Mock arrived at the State House. He was immediately surrounded by newspaper men. At that time he said he was undecided what to do.

During the session many members talked with him. After the noon adjournment Mr. Mock said:

MAY DROP CASE.

"I rather think that I shall drop the whole matter now that Gethro has apologized to the House, although he has not yet apologized to me.

"If Gethro is guilty of wrong doing, I feel that he is only a tool for others higher up, and therefore I have some sympathy for him.

"I do not think, as stated in the newspapers, that I made any reply to him when he asked me whether I had brought his name into my testimony in the bribery investigation.

"When he struck me I stood with my hands behind me, as I frequently do. His blow, or blows, landed on my chest, and I felt a sore spot there to-day.

"Whether there was one blow or two blows I am uncertain, but I think there were two, one with each fist, but it was done so quickly that I am not at all certain."

Mock was the centre of interested groups of the house at different times to-day. Many of the members are urging him to take action against Gethro. He was told that his failure to resent Gethro's action would certainly put him (Mock) in a false light.

MAY CALL LAST OF HOUSE MEMBERS AT TO-DAY'S SESSION

Speaker Cole announced that the Committee on Rules hoped to finish the investigation of the House members on bribery to-day, and he asked them all to stay about the building that they might be called.

The House had just adjourned for the day when the attack on Mock took place. The members were swarming into the House corridor, where Representative Gethro sat on one of the long sofas. Among the members was Representative Mock.

The instant that Gethro saw Mock he sprang toward him. Gethro is a man of able judicial frame of mind in respect to this case; he takes a broad view of every phase of it, and wishes to do nothing except what is absolutely in accordance with the constitution and the law.

This is all I feel called upon to say.

ORDER PASSED BY COUNCIL.

At a meeting of the Executive Council held at the State House to-day, which had been called by Governor Guild for that purpose, the following order was unanimously adopted:

"Ordered, That the opinion of the honorable justices of the Supreme Judicial Court be requested in answer to the following question:

"Is the Governor of the Commonwealth, upon presentation to him of a petition for the pardon of a person convicted of a crime and duly sentenced therefor, or for commutation of the sentence as imposed upon such person, required as a matter of law to refer such petition to the Executive Council or to submit the same for the consideration of said council?"

Tucker has been sentenced to death in the week beginning June 10, and some argue that if the Governor had intended to refer the matter to the Council, and not reject the petition, he would have had no reason to call upon the court to settle the question that will be put to it.

This move in the case postpones the hearing of the new evidence that was to have been heard by Judge Sheldon and Sherman in East Cambridge to-morrow.

The full bench of the Supreme Judicial Court will be asked to sit at its earliest convenience to determine the question at issue, so that the other matters—the new evidence and the hearing of the petition—may be finished before June 10, otherwise it would be necessary for the Governor to reprieve Tucker.

GOVERNOR UNBIASSED ON TUCKER, SAYS VAHEY

Lawyer James H. Vahey, of counsel for Charles Louis Tucker, in a statement to the BOSTON AMERICAN to-day, takes issue with those who believe that Governor Guild's decision to ask the Supreme Court to define his powers in connection with the Tucker petition indicates that His Excellency is opposed to the commutation of the condemned young man's death sentence to life imprisonment.

Mr. Vahey asserts that the Governor's action, which was authorized by his council to-day, "in no way indicates any opinion by the Governor upon the general subject matter of the petition for commutation."

Governors have heretofore held that if they wanted to refuse a petition such as Tucker's they had a perfect right to do so without referring the matter to the council. The question of this right was raised, it is understood, by Mr. Vahey, and Governor Guild concluded to let the court settle the matter.

NO INDICATION, SAYS VAHEY.

This is the statement of Mr. Vahey on the matter:

"There is nothing to be said on this latest phase of the Tucker case in addition to what the Governor has stated, except that the submission of the question of the person in whom the pardoning power rests to the Supreme Court in no way indicates any opinion by the Governor upon the general subject matter of the petition for commutation.

"He has not yet heard the reasons which will be presented for commutation; he has succeeded so far in maintaining an admirable state of mind in respect to this case, and wishes to do nothing except what is absolutely in accordance with the constitution and the law.

This is all I feel called upon to say.

TUCKER EXPLAINS MISTAKE IN DIARY

Charles Louis Tucker, who wrote a portion of Tucker's sentence, Walter Tucker, on his visit to the jail to-day asked Louis about the matter.

"What he meant to say, he told me," said Walter, "was that he had lived near New York. Louis asked me to have the mistake corrected."

Walter Tucker said that he had talked to Louis about fifteen minutes. He said his brother was feeling well and is very hopeful of favorable action by the Governor and Council.

RAILROAD AND STANDARD OIL IN COLLUSION

Iron Mounaain Accused of Long Delays of Independents' Shipments.

CLEVELAND, May 25.—At the Interstate Commerce Commission hearing to-day Frank B. Freeter, secretary of the National Refining Company (independent) of Cleveland, was again called to the witness stand.

He submitted evidence showing collusion between the Iron Mountain Railroad in Arkansas and the Waters-Pierce Oil Company—a branch of the Standard. He testified that in shipping oil to customers in Arkansas the Iron Mountain Railroad is terminable delays, which resulted in the loss of many customers of the independent oil company. Complaints to the railroad were unavailing.

Mr. Freeter submitted a mass of correspondence which he said corroborated the evidence that agents of the Waters-Pierce Company (Standard) were also agents of the Iron Mountain Railroad; that the Standard agents delayed all independent oil shipments until independents were obliged to purchase from the Standard Oil Trust.

"At our stations in Illinois," said Mr. Freeter, "the railroads will ship less than car orders of oil only on certain days. At Springfield, Ill., for instance, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will ship only on Mondays and Thursdays.

"Orders coming too late for those days must be delayed, and the Standard gets our customers with its rank wagons. We have repeatedly applied for better opportunities for shipment without success. If we did not make a better grade of oil than the Standard, we would be forced out of business."

SMALLPOX ON SHIP TAKING ATHLETES HOME

Republic Arrives To-day and Is Held Up Several Hours at New York Quarantine.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, May 25.—Smallpox aboard the big steamship Republic, which got into port to-day from the Mediterranean, interfered with the landing of the triumphant American athletes who came back from the Olympian games in Greece.

After a delay of several hours the steamship was permitted to weigh anchor and proceed to her dock. An enthusiastic greeting awaited the returning victors, led by Martin Sheridan, and which included Robertson, Prinstein, Frank and other of the medal-decked. Like mustered young men who had accomplished so much upon the ancient soil of Greece.

DROPS HALF-STARVED, HERMIT MAY DIE

HOLYOKE, May 25.—Half-starved and a physical wreck, Joseph Guyott, an eccentric hermit from Fairview, dropped unconscious near the Flat Iron hook yesterday. He was taken to the House of Providence Hospital and his recovery is doubtful. His parents were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Guyott, who were found unconscious through malnutrition some months ago in their Fairview home, and who died without regaining consciousness.

"There's a Dark Man Coming with a Bundle"

(With special application to Massachusetts conditions, and apologies to Lew Dockstader.)

ON Beacon Hill some members still Believe in signs, you know;
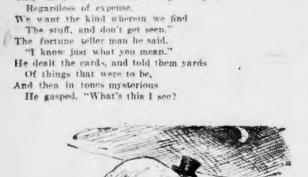
They saw one hanging on the House,
A week or two ago.
It simply said, "Your fortune read
A quarter, fifty cents."
They said, "We want the best you've got,
Regardless of expense.
We want the kind wherein we find
The stuff, and don't get seen."
The fortune teller man he said,
"I know just what you mean."
He dealt the cards, and told them yards
Of things that were to be,
And then in tones mysterious
He gasped, "What's this I see?

"THERE'S a dark man coming with a bundle.
He's a sneakin' along softly singin' a song.
It's a mighty heavy package for to trundle.
Seems like something must be wrong.
For there's something so suspicious in his actions,
He's a bummin' a tune by the light of the moon,
To your House, to your home, in the night he's goin' to roam,
There's a dark man comin' with a bundle soon."



THE graft allies were good and wise,
And each one wore a smile,
They peeled their weather eyes and watched
To see the coming pile.
And when the word was softly heard
The news was passed around,
"They will not pike, name what you like,

It's just like money found."
The chap that led the buying said
(In manner slick and nifty),
"You'd better aim to join the game,
I've got a block of fifty."
The chaps that know the ropes and so
Insist there is no wrong
In taking cash (unless it's rash)
Just passed the word along:

"THERE'S a dark man coming with a bundle,
And he ain't any bluff, 'cause he's got lots of stuff.
It's a mighty heavy package for to trundle,
But it won't be heavy long.
No one's likely to take notice of his actions,
For he show by our looks we are but a gang of crooks,
To our House, to our home, right away he's going to roam,
There's a dark man coming with a bundle soon."

AS we have seen, the bundle green
Arrived in time to win.
And by the vote we also note
It held a lot of "tin."
And all went big till Simon Swig
Told how the bill was passed.
The bosses had to take it up
And hear the tale at last.
Now some suggest it would be best
To have the evidence
Heard where the public can be sure
They're getting at its sense.
But "No," they cry, the bosses shy,
"Why, that can never be,
We've got a hunch they'd get the bunch.
For we can plainly see:

"THERE'S a dark man coming with a bundle,
And we know if he can that he'll get every man,
It's the evidence against us he will trundle
Where 'twill make it awful hard to explain.
For there's something real threat'ning in his actions,
John Moran is his name, and he's wise to the game,
To our House, to our home, some fine day he's going to roam,
There's a dark man coming with a bundle soon."

9 LYNN STRIKE-BREAKERS QUIT, 50 GUARDED

Charge That Employers Have Broken Faith With Them in Machinists' Trouble.

FEAR TROUBLE TO-NIGHT

Special to the Boston Americans.

LYNN, May 25.—Escaping through the windows of their lodging house shortly after midnight, nine of the Lynn machinists' strike-breakers took an early morning train to-day back to their homes. The remainder of their fifty compatriots, it is stated, will leave Lynn Saturday.

The strikebreakers charge that they have been in strict confinement ever since they have been in this city, and that they have been refused permission to go out on the streets after working hours.

So intense is the feeling of the strike sympathizers that trouble is feared to-night, and a special cordon of policemen will be placed around the lodging house at No. 25 Buffum street, which the strike-breakers occupy.

The prospective failure of the strike-breakers to handle the situation is regarded as the most serious setback the Employers' Association has so far received.

Three men employed at the factory of the General Electrical Welding Company, when they learned this morning that the cost of their fare from New York was to be deducted from their wages, in violation, they allege, of their agreement with the Employers' Association, refused to work and left the building. For a time it was feared that all of the other workmen would follow their example.

FR. MAHER, OF SEMINARY AT BRIGHTON, DEAD

Head of St. John's Passes Away After an Operation for Brain Tumor.

Word was received from Baltimore of the death in that city to-day of Very Rev. Daniel Maher, S. S. D. D., for five years and until within a few months the head of St. John's Seminary, Brighton.

For almost a year he has been sick and yesterday he submitted to an operation at St. Agnes Hospital, Baltimore, for tumor of the brain. The operation proved too much for his strength and he failed to recover.

While Father Maher's critical condition was well known to the faculty and residents of the seminary, the news of his death came as a shock. He had been held in the highest regard not only by his co-workers in that institution but by all of the priests of this archdiocese.

The remains will be brought to this city for interment and the funeral services will take place next Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock in the chapel of the seminary at Brighton. Father Maher was made president of the seminary in 1901.

CIVIC OWNERSHIP TO WIN.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—The bill to increase the taxes of the public utility corporations of the District of Columbia was sanctioned by the Senate yesterday by sending it back to committee.

Senator Patterson of Colorado declared that the possession of these franchises by private companies was "the cause of 95 per cent. of municipal corruption."

ACCUSED CHIEF OF POLICE GETS FINAL HEARING

PROVIDENCE, May 25.—Hearing for a second time the charges of conspiracy which have been brought against Chief of Police Frank A. Matthews by Superintendent A. B. Christy of the Rhode Island Temperance League, the Police Commissioners are to-day making what is expected to be their final review of this case.

To-day representatives of the newspapers are admitted. The commission, consisting of Chairman William H. Luther, Colonel Harold J. Gross and Lewis J. Pierce, will hear from Hon. John R. Nash, proprietor of a fancy vaudeville house, who is the principal witness.

At the former hearing Nash disappeared and when found he declared that he had been compelled to leave Providence owing to threats. Nash will be called to-day to tell the commissioners what he knows against Matthews.

INVENTOR OF BASE BURNER.

PROVIDENCE, May 25.—Francis W. Read, inventor of the first base burning stove, died at his home here yesterday, aged sixty-eight years.

GETHRO IN PUBLIC APOLOGY FOR FIGHT IN BRIBE SCANDAL SAYS, "I AM INNOCENT"

medium stature, while Mock is a tall man, of powerful physique. He is an athlete, and could easily win in a test of strength with the man from the Ninth Ward.

"You," cried Gethro, "did you mention my name yesterday? Did you make those statements credited to you in the papers about bribery?"

Mock stood still and looked Gethro squarely in the eye. He hesitated for a moment, and his face flushed at the epithet. Then he said, quietly, according to eyewitnesses:

"Yes, sir. I did."

"Take that," said Gethro, and aimed a blow at Mock's face, it just glanced his cheek. Recovering himself, Gethro struck again, this time landing just below Mock's throat.

Mock sprang back, put his hands behind him, and faced Gethro. He was evidently very angry, but endeavored to control himself.

Gethro rushed at him again. Representative George Birch of Milford leaped between them and grappled with Gethro, who struggled to get free. Other members came to Mr. Birch's assistance. Gethro fought them all, muttering threats.

The members finally overpowered Gethro and friends took him out of the State House.

Before the House Committee on Rules which is investigating the charges of bribery among the members, more than a dozen members had appeared before noon to-day. Speaker Cole called his committee to order at 10:15 o'clock and William H. Granger of Agawam was the first to appear. He was before the committee but two minutes, and when he left refused to divulge anything.

Unless the unexpected happens the Speaker is confident that the last member will have been heard before adjournment to-day.

From 10:17 to 10:20 John R. Locke of Berkshire was in the committee room and he left equally uncommunicative.

George A. Shackford of Reading spent three minutes with the committee.

"What did you tell the committee?" he was asked.

"You must get your information from the committee," he replied. "I am not one of those members who cares to shoot off my mouth."

Andrew S. Healy of Holyoke was before the committee from 10:25 to 10:28. He refused to talk outside.

Noble B. Turner of Great Barrington was in the room from 10:28 to 10:33.

Samuel A. Tuttle of Hyde Park, after a four-minute hearing, came out at 10:37. He absolutely refused to tell anything about his experience. Melvin B. Putnam of the Tenth Essex District came from the committee room after a session of three minutes.

COMEDIANS ARE JOLLY WITH DARK MAN OF HEARING

"The Dark Man With the Bundle," now so much talked of at the State House, has attracted the attention of comedians and singers. In nearly all of the burlesque houses last night there were jokes about the affair, partly-darly about the flat fight in the lobby, and at one house a topical song was sung with "the dark man" for a subject.

Raymond and Caverly, the German dialect comedians at Keith's, worked the subject into their act rather neatly, shortly said to the other:

"Where is that job you promised me?"

"You meet me to-morrow morning ten o'clock and Tremont street and I will take you up to the State House and get it for you. That is where they put the jobs up."

"Is that the place where they are investigating themselves to see what they did with it?"

"Yes; they are all looking for the dark man with the bundle."

"I don't care what kind of a job I get so long as I get paid for not doing it."

Soon after a dig at Stephen O'Meara, the two comedians sang these words:

The State House it was crowded with men who never worked.
Who voted, not for conscience, but as the boss directed.
The men who pulled the strings on them were lookers, dark and rare.
With cash in her they were at fifty for each share.
It is easy sum to do it, for their price is very low—
To sell a bill all you must have is fifteen hundred dough.
For that is all they say it cost this year on Beacon Hill
To deposit the ballots on the bucket shop bill.

Just fifty planks they come in chunks, they're good enough for me.
The dark man has the bundle and he's looking out to see.
Just watch him passing it about, go get your share now, Bill,
For it is easy to get money if you vote on Beacon Hill.

It's funny, now the bill is dead, to see the fuss it made.
The men who got the dough declare that they are not afraid.
"Investigate, investigate," the battle cry they raise,
"We know not who the dark man is—he is the man who pays."
"We'll start investigating—investigate ourselves—"
"And we'll tell the dear old public that we're a lot of elves."
For it only costs some hundreds, they rear on Beacon Hill,
To deposit the ballots on the bucket shop bill.

For a Paltry $50—Incredible!

From the New York Telegraph.

We will not believe the Grand and General Court of Massachusetts sold out to the bucket shops, at least, not in the way hatched by the report that a member of that body is credited with naming. The Yankees have their faults, and it is quite true that fifty dollars is fifty dollars with the average among them, but they are not famous for being satisfied with fifty when they can get a hundred or a hundred and fifty just as easily.

The story runs that two score and ten members were knocked down to the bucket shops as a sort of a job lot at $50 a head. That is to say, it cost those who rig up a blackboard and invite a gamble on the market $2,500 all told to swing a number of votes that usually proves a balance of power in any ordinary parliamentary body.

It doesn't seem credible. Surely a member of the Great and General Court of the good old Bay State, a body in which has sat a Charles Sumner and a Henry Wilson, a Nathaniel P. Banks and a George Frisbie Hoar, would not so demean itself as to sell out for less than the market rate on Aldermen in cities of the fourth class.

It may be that in this isolated instance the sum mentioned is correct, and the sequel shows that the man who bartered his vote would have been dear at any price, but it is most likely that he was handed a lemon while his colleagues carried away choice baskets of the finest kind of peaches.

MRS. FREEMAN THREATENED TO KILL TUCKER, DECLARES DR. WINSLOW

QUOTES WORDS HE SAYS SHE USED IN TALK

MRS. ANNIE FREEMAN, sister of Mabel Page, and the Rev. Dr. Wilson Copley Winslow, who talked about the murder and of Tucker with both Mrs. Freeman and Edward Page, are at odds over statements which he declares she made to him, and also things which he says he learned in conversation with Mr. Page. Mrs. Freeman says:

"I had my experience with Dr. Winslow about a month after Tucker had been found guilty. He asked me many impertinent questions, and was so insistent that I was on my guard.

"The truth is," says Mrs. Freeman, "that Dr. Winslow has no secrets of my father's. The public knows all that my father knew about the murder of my sister. He carried no secrets to the grave."

Dr. Winslow's story of his talk with Mrs. Freeman follows:

By Rev. Albert E. George.

"THAT story about me in a morning newspaper, is a fake and travesty. It's the creation of a disordered brain," says the Rev. Dr. W. C. Winslow.

"Why, when I went to see Mrs. Freeman, she treated me at first like a gentleman. She lost her patience when I intimated that Tucker should have a new trial.

"If he goes free, I'll kill him myself."

"This was a few weeks after the trial.

"Did she ever speak to you, Dr. Winslow, about that letter you wrote in reference to the alibi of Tucker?" was asked.

"Yes," said the clergyman, "she declared she did not think so much of me since I refused to do this case. I'm not seeking notoriety by any means, but I'm interested in this whole matter because I believe Tucker is not guilty.

"Would you be willing to read the letter Mrs. Freeman wrote you before her father's funeral?"

Mrs. Freeman's Letter.

Dr. Winslow at once produced the letter, which is as follows:

Dear Sir:

Fearing that you may wish to attend the funeral of our father, tomorrow as you consider yourself a friend, we would state that your presence on that occasion is not desired by us."

(signed) HAROLD PAGE,
ANNIE FREEMAN.

"The trouble with Mrs. Freeman in this whole case," continued the clergyman, "is that the public is not aware of all the details in this matter.

"Why, Mrs. Freeman said to me that Mr. Parker was her old friend and promised her before the trial that he would do his utmost to convict Tucker.

"Why he held the jury spellbound, she declared, 'and not even Phillips Brooks possessed such God-like gifts as Mr. Parker.'"

"Do you consider Mrs. Freeman competent to give a calm and reasonable view of the case?" was asked.

"I do not," interrupted Dr. Winslow, "all her statements are more or less irrational, others think so.

"Why, look at the way she treated Miss Alice W. Hubbard, and how small in her estimate to call her fifty-six years of age. I know Alice well, and she is an excellent woman.

Is Set Against Tucker.

"Mrs. Freeman seems bound to have Tucker electrocuted. She has no reason to act towards me in any other spirit but that of kindness. She is undoubtedly of an excitable nature and says many things that in her calmer moments she would refrain from saying."

"Did you ever go to interview Mr. Page?

"Yes. I went to see him at his invitation, when I made a long and friendly call, and was invited to come again and Mr. Page conversed with me in the freest manner.

"I have taken a deeper interest in the trial since the statements of Medical Examiner Harris. I have not made the slightest part of false sentiment about it. I believe Tucker is innocent. He should have taken the stand himself at the trial. Whatever interest I've taken in this matter is simply to free a man that I feel is not guilty."

AMY ROBERTS'S TESTIMONY

MISS ALICE W. HUBBARD. AMY ROBERTS.

"The paper I signed, as I understood it after reading it," says Mr. Murphy, "is a harmless statement one which any of the twelve jurors who served at the Tucker trial may sign without qualifying themselves. It simply states that if the evidence which Dr. F. A. Harris is now said to be willing to offer to the effect that the wounds on the body of Mabel Page could not have been caused by the Tucker knife produced at the trial, and the new story about the owner-ship of the stickpin, the verdict 'might' have been different.

"I have not changed my opinion regarding the case, I believe, before God, that it was my duty to vote for the conviction of Charles L. Tucker on the evidence presented at the trial, and if I should live to be as old as Methuselah's cat I'd still believe that on the evidence presented at the trial the verdict was in accordance with the facts made known to us.

"The talk now being made by Dr. Harris regarding the knife wounds and the disputed ownership of the stickpin I regard as trivial. Dr. Harris made no more impression on me than other doctors at the trial. Tucker was not found guilty on Dr. Harris's testimony or the stickpin evidence alone.

"The Tucker jury was a kind-hearted set of men who were ready to give him the benefit of any doubt in their minds. He had a fair and impartial trial.

"The jurors knew that if they found a verdict of guilty they would be entitled to all opposition. The liveryman are highly indignant and it is apparent that the automobile war has just begun.

"Tucker's knife could not have inflicted the wounds found on Miss Mabel Page's body, and the evidence questioning the identification of the Canadian stickpin as the property of Mabel Page, in the form it is now reported to have assumed, had been presented to the jury, this testimony 'might' have made a difference in the verdict."

HARRIS STATEMENT WORTH ATTENTION

—Juror Ralph E. Whitcomb

"I try to be impartial, and I do not wish to see any man pay the death penalty if there is a shadow of doubt as to his guilt."

These were the words of Juror Ralph E. Whitcomb of Roxbury, the youngest man on the jury that convicted Charles L. Tucker of the murder of Mabel Page, expressed to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter as a reason for favoring the petition to commute Tucker's sentence to life imprisonment.

Mr. Whitcomb did not state in so many words that he signed the petition, but he made no denial when it was assumed that he had signed.

"Some weeks ago Mr. Valley called upon me," continued Mr. Whitcomb, "and presented his reasons for desiring my signature to the petition. Mr. Valley presented many reasons, among them the position of Medical Examiner Harris, concerning the knife. I have been asked if this was the principal reason that influenced me. My father and Mr. Frost were just now discussing the Harris point raised by Dr. Harris.

Explains a Knife Wound.

The elder Mr. Whitcomb and Charles Frost, a neighbor, here entered into the conversation, and Mr. Frost explained from his experience in butchering, through a term of many years, that a pointed knife, especially one like the Tucker knife, could leave a stab wound with surface indications similar to a double-bladed weapon. He said:

"Supposing a knife like that owned by Tucker with a sharp pointed blade were driven into a body directly, then the mark left by the point followed by the back of the blade would just about correspond to that of the opposite and cutting edge. That is, the back of the blade would not merge the original narrow puncture made by the point, because the cutting edge enlarges the wound and the back of the blade indentions similar to a double-bladed weapon. He said:

"Supposing a knife like that owned by Tucker with a sharp pointed blade were driven into a body directly, then the mark left by the point followed by the back of the blade would just about correspond to that of the opposite and cutting edge. That is, the back of the blade would not merge the original narrow puncture made by the point, because the cutting edge enlarges the wound and the back of the blade obliquely, following the cutting edge and leaving the wound just as a two-edged blade would.

This is the theory the three men were discussing in the yard of the Whitcomb home when the BOSTON AMERICAN reporter arrived.

"Commutation Reasonable."

"I see no definite reason to change my views on the guilt of Charles L. Tucker," answered Juror Whitcomb. "There are no settled reasons that I should believe differently than when I left the jury room, but if there is the faintest shadow of doubt then I should say that commutation of sentence to life imprisonment would be reasonable.

"Mr. Valley spent nearly two hours with me, and he had a mass of matter to go through. When I said there were other things beside the Harris incident affecting the situation I had in mind no very pronounced thing in favor of Charles L. Tucker.

"I am in no mood to go through this item by item, but you can rest assured that all that I have in mind has been made public."

"Everybody believes that the Tucker verdict was circumstantial, otherwise there would be no present controversy," was but 23 years of age when I sat upon the case, but I was satisfied, as were the others, with what was presented.

"As in the case of Mr. Frost, who tells of his experience as a butcher, everything is open to debate. He has had great experience in his line, but I also realize that so eminent an authority as Dr. Harris is always worth listening to. I hope my youth does not interfere with fair judgment, and believe it does not."

"Have you and the other jurors been called to attend the hearing before Governor Guild next Saturday?"

"I do not know about the others, but I have not been requested to do so."

"Shall you attend if invited?"

"I am not prepared to say."

Mr. Whitcomb again asserted that he could see no injustice in allowing a condemned man opportunity where there was a possibility in his favor.

JUROR MURPHY IS OF SAME MIND AS TO VERDICT

The three jurors, Thomas H. Murphy, Ralph E. Whitcomb and William A. French, who signed a document to be presented to Governor Guild in favor of Tucker, say that they did not sign a petition for commutation of Tucker's sentence. They say it was a statement of the possible influence upon the jury of what is now described as new evidence in favor of Tucker.

The paper they signed was a statement that if Medical Examiner Harris had at the trial testified that in his opinion

MAKING NEGRESS INTO A WHITE WOMAN.

The Best for the Least

THE very name, "The Big Store," implies magnitude. An exclusive clothes store of tremendous size, a clothing stock of enormous proportions, a growing trade, ever increasing, must be the result of some far reaching influence. But there is nothing mysterious about it. When any institution such as ours becomes so great that its purchasing and buying power is made felt in the commercial world, that it can readily undersell all competitors and save money to users of its merchandise, then begins the upward movement of success. What care you for fine decorations? It's good merchandise you're after, at the lowest prices, "the best for the least" at all times. That's why we grow. That makes us "The Big Store."

Spring and Summer Suits

Just an instance of underselling exists in our special line of suits at $15. There would be little trouble for us to get $20 for them. Others do it, so could we, but our principle of "the best for the least" shall always be maintained. Blue serges, worsted grays, cheviots, tweeds and fancy Scotches $15

SLIDING SCALE BILL NOW GOES TO GOV. GUILD

Awaits Signature or Disapproval After Enactment in House and Senate.

MAY ASK MODIFICATION

The sliding scale gas bill was enacted in the House and Senate to-day and now goes to Governor Guild for his signature or disapproval. It is intimated that the Governor is not satisfied with all the provisions of the bill and may return it for modification.

It is a well-known fact that Governor Guild did not want the bill to come to him to-day, and repeated inquiries as to the progress of the bill after its return from the House were not definitely answered until just a minute before the adjournment, when its enactment was proposed.

Governor Guild has had Louis D. Brandeis and George W. Anderson of the Public Franchise League at his office in reference to the bill, and members of the committee on public lighting understand that the Governor wants certain changes in the bill before he gives it his approval.

GIRL SLAYER TRIAL ENDS; TO SEE ALIENISTS

NEW YORK, May 25.—The trial of Josephine Terranova, who is charged with the murder of her aunt and uncle after enduring years of misery at their hands, was adjourned until Monday, to-day, at the request of District Attorney Jerome, who asked that a commission be appointed to inquire into the young married woman's sanity.

The jury was discharged. This indicates that the end of the case has practically been reached.

Justice Scott granted the motion for a commission, and it will be appointed and make the necessary inquiry so that it may report by Monday.

The move to suspend the trial came at the opening of the case to-day. District Attorney Jerome asked Mr. Palmieri if he would consent to deferring the case a little while.

Palmieri would not consent, and when court opened District Attorney Jerome moved that the trial be suspended and a commission be appointed.

The District Attorney said that the law did not contemplate the trial of an insane woman, but if Palmieri would say that the girl was not insane now he would go on with the case.

Judge Scott granted the motion taking the position that the jury might find that the girl had committed some crime, and that in the event of her being insane at this time a great injustice to her and the law would be done. He said that an adjournment until Monday would not be prejudicial to the defence.

BIRTHDAY NO. 28 FOR ELKS

Celebrating the twenty-eighth anniversary of their organization, members of Boston Lodge, B. P. O. Elks, held a banquet and dance last night in Paul Revere Hall. Members of Boston Lodge and their women friends, 250 couples in all, sat down to banquet at 7:30 o'clock. An orchestra played popular airs, and during the courses the headwaiters sang. At the close of the feast dancing began.

At 11 o'clock the Elks toast was delivered by Exalted Ruler Daniel F. Lingham, and George F. Marrin of New York sang "Auld Lang Syne" and "Annie Laurie."

The committee of arrangements was composed of J. W. Lingham, chairman; Henry M. Flynn, treasurer; John H. Wemer, secretary; Robert C. Freeman, J. J. Sullivan, John J. Hall, J. E. Rafferty, A. R. Dowling and Louis Baer. The reception committee was composed of Daniel F. Lynch, Dr. Thomas H. O'Connor, Lawrence H. Sullivan, Charles P. Curtis, Nicholas J. Purcell and Michael W. Norriss. The floor director was John J. Sullivan, who was assisted by James F. Robinson, Herbert A. Perkins, James C. Little and Hugh C. McGrath acted as stewards for the affair.

2,300 HIGH SCHOOL CADETS IN 40TH ANNUAL PARADE

In the foreground on the left is Lieut.-Col. Joseph W. Doherty of the Latin School, acting brigadier during part of the route; on the right is Captain Joseph L. Merrill of the crack Company C, Latin School prize winners.

Boy Army Makes Splendid Appearance in Marching Through Boston Streets To-day.

With heads erect, eyes to the front and marching in unison like veterans, Boston's High School Cadets, 2,300 strong, paraded through the streets of this city to-day in their annual parade. It was the fortieth annual parade, and four regiments participated. There were twelve battalions, comprising forty-one companies, and 158 field and line officers. Four bands and two drum corps furnished the music.

With their blue coats, white trousers and khaki leggings, the boys made a splendid appearance. The boys marched amid the plaudits of the spectators, many of whom were their friends and relatives.

Formed Infantry Brigade.

The four regiments were formed into an infantry brigade on Montgomery street, and promptly at 10 o'clock they swung into Clarendon street and thence to Columbus avenue. Then they marched to Park square, Boylston street, Tremont, Winter, Summer, Otis, Franklin, Broad, State, Washington, School and Beacon, to the Common, through the Beacon-Charles streets gate, halting on the parade ground.

The marching regiments were reviewed at City Hall by Mayor Fitzgerald and other city officials; at the State House by Governor Guild, his staff and members of the Legislature, and on the Common by the Boston School Board.

The regiments marched with the Second regiment on the right, the Third resting on its left, the Fourth and First next.

With Mayor Fitzgerald when he reviewed the parade at City Hall were members of the Board of Aldermen, heads of departments and a number of special guests. These were the Latin School battalion officers of 1884, former colonels of the Boston School Regiment, and the head masters of the high and Latin schools of the city. The guests, after luncheon at Young's Hotel, witnessed the Harvard-Cornell race.

Ten thousand people, mostly high school girls, viewed the manoeuvres on the Common, which began at 12:20, after the boys had eaten lunch.

The colors of English High, light and dark blue, and the deep red of Dorchester High were most conspicuous. There was a large sprinkling of dark green, the Roxbury High color, and the bright yellow of East Boston High.

Mayor's Daughter Leads Cheering.

When the seven Dorchester companies in the Fourth Regiment passed the reviewing party on the Common they received a hilarious reception from the Mayor's party, which included his fifteen-year-old daughter Rose, who is a senior in the Dorchester High. She led the cheering.

Others in the party which was chaperoned by Mrs. O'Callaghan, were Misses Katherine and Lulu Donovan, Miss Kinz, Miss Morton, Miss Marguerite O'Callaghan, Miss Burley, Miss Claxton, Mrs. Donovan, Mrs. James Foley.

SEEK "DOCTOR" FOR DEATH OF BROCKTON GIRL

Police Believe Pretty Bertha Barr Fell Victim of "Murden Den."

WAS NOTED FOR BEAUTY

BROCKTON, May 25.—That Bertha Mae Barr, a girl of nineteen who was noted for her beauty and who died early to-day, was a victim of a "murden den" such as that in which Susan Agnes Geary of Boston, met her death, was learned to-day by the police.

The authorities are searching for a "doctor" who it is thought may know something of the case. This man, it is said, has been in the clutches of the law before on the same charge.

Miss Barr was a brunette with large dark eyes and a fine figure. Her only relative in this city so far as known is an aunt. The girl lived at No. 56 West Elm street, where she obtained a room three months ago.

The young woman was a patent leather repairer at the George G. Snow Company factory and a member of the Dressers and Packers' Union of the Boot and Shoe Workers. She kept company with a young man whom the police have interviewed.

Ten days ago Miss Barr left saying she was going to New Bedford to stay with a sick aunt a while. Saturday last a boot and shoe workers' union official met her on the street in this city.

The girl died at the home of the doctor for whom the police are searching.

STATES DECLINE TO SEND TROOPS

WASHINGTON, May 25.—So far ten States have declined the invitation sent out by Assistant Secretary of War Oliver to send some of their national guard organizations into camp with the regular troops this Summer.

Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Ohio have already planned to have their entire national forces go into large State camps and are unwilling to go to the expense of another camp.

DUCHESS LEADER IN LONDON LADIES' CLUB

LONDON, May 25.—The latest thing in ladies' clubs in London is the Imperial Club, organized to give women a more extended knowledge of national affairs and politics. The Younders have declared against female suffrage. The vice presidents include the Duchess of Marlborough. Leading politicians will speak at the club on one afternoon each week.

Points for Police from Tour Abroad

AUTO RECORDS BROKEN IN WORCESTER HILL CLIMB

Darracq Car Lowers Time and Duryea-Stevens Comes Within Second of Record at Dead Horse.

By J. C. Kerrison.

There was a general reduction of the records all along the line at the Dead Horse Hill climb in Worcester yesterday afternoon. The greatest achievement was made by S. B. Stevens with the Darracq car, which captured the Vanderbilt and the Cuban road races, he placing the record at 1m. 2sec. This is certainly going for the mile up a climb ranging from 10 to 23 per cent. in places, and over rough, hard roads. This, however, was the record for racing cars. The performances of the stock cars were in the main most excellent. They scored heavily against the records, the big six-cylinder Stevens-Duryea naturally enough making the closest mark to the best previous record, Mr. Duryea clocking the distance in 1m. 10sec., just a second out side of record.

The other big cars all scored well and strong, especially the Pope-Hartford, the four-cylinder Rambler and the big Columbia. These cars in the high horse power classes. In the lighter classes Mrs. H. Ferguson Rogers and Mrs. Oppenheimer both did excellent work. The former, driving a 10-horse power Maxwell, took no less than three prizes and three events, while her husband captured a second in one event with the same car that he performed so well with at the Atlantic City races. The best time in the stock car class was 1:34 and a fraction, which was better by seconds than was the time on record a year ago.

In the Worcester country championship for a stronger woman and in events three and four Mrs. Rogers took first honors. Event six is the one which will not be determined until the deciding of the protest. Mrs. Oppenheimer scored successfully with her Reo in the next event, defeating cars of twice the horse power of her own. H. F. Crockett took an event with a Buick, and J. E. Poore did likewise with a Crawford.

The Pope-Hartford displayed excellent hill climbing abilities in several events, taking event ten from a large field of entries. Frank Wing walked away with the eleventh event, while the twelfth went to H. E. Wilson in the four-cylinder Rambler. Wilson is, comparatively speaking, a new man in the competitive field, and yet in the events in which he participated he displayed excellent judgment and his car performed most consistently. Just as she did at the Wilkesbarre hill climbing contest a week ago. The big four-cylinder Stevens-Duryea proved a veritable fiend for hard and efficient work and responded to every call made on her.

The English Daimler, which won the Wilkesbarre hill climb did not do as well here, although to be sure she captured one event, but still when pitted against the larger and stripped cars she was not capable of rendering as good account of herself as formerly. Joe Downey, the man who is billed to ride against Hillard at Readville next week, was a victor in his special class.

Taken as a whole the hill climb was admittedly one of the most successful and best managed affairs that has ever been held in this section. The only trouble was there were too many events, and all were not ridden owing to the sudden visitation of a heavy shower.

NEW MARK FOR FRENCH LINER

NEW YORK, May 25.—Steamship men were surprised to find the new steamer La Provence of the French line get into the North River in time for breakfast to-day, after a record-breaking trip from Havre, she reached shady Hook lightship at 6:30 a. m., taking over five hours off her former record between Havre and Sandy Hook. The time was six days and four hours. She averaged over twenty-one nautical miles per hour during the trip.

O'MEARA, IN LONDON, TELLS POLICE PLANS

New Commissioner Says He Has Been Studying European Methods.

MAY BE OF SOME USE HERE

Special Cable to Boston American.

LONDON, May 25.—Stephen O'Meara, who has been made police commissioner of Boston, was found by a representative of the BOSTON AMERICAN, and in his first public statement since he received his appointment he declared that he would make his police plans for Boston immediately on his return home.

Mr. O'Meara, with his family, has been in Europe for several months. He arrived in this city to-day and will sail for Boston to-morrow on the Arabic.

Although the new commissioner said that he was greatly surprised to receive the appointment, he had been making a study of the police systems abroad, and that it would be of help to him when he assumes his new duties.

"I have been traveling on the Continent since July," said Mr. O'Meara, "and if the German Emperor had offered me the command of the police forces of Germany I wouldn't have been more surprised than by the cabled offer from Governor Guild which reached me in Dresden. A cablegram from my friends in Boston induced me to cable my acceptance to the Governor's office.

"I have no plans as to what I will do. The situation is such that I cannot make any plans until I arrive in Boston. Coincidentally it happens that one thing I studied during my tour of the capitals of Europe was the administration of the police departments in various cities.

"It seems, in view of the Governor's offer of the post which I have accepted, that I must have been a mind reader.

"I think I have looked something like my unprejudiced study of the police system of Europe when I will be of advantage to me in the administration of the police department of Boston."

CASSATT TO FACE THE MUSIC

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 25.—It is officially stated that President Cassatt of the Pennsylvania Railroad, who is in Europe, will sail for home to-morrow.

It is said the recent revelations of grafting officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad is responsible for the speedy return of President Cassatt.

TRIED TO KEEP UBERO STOCK BUYERS AWAY

Letters Shown at Borges Trial to Prove Management Wanted No Visitors at Plantation.

CHECK STUBS EXHIBITED

Reading a letter written Ferdinand E. Borges to F. C. Torres, resident manager of the Ubero properties, Attorney Frederick H. Chase today sought to prove that Borges, the Ubero Plantation Company promoter on trial in the Superior Criminal Court, charged with conspiracy on two counts and the larceny of $1,250,000, had made every effort to prevent any prospective purchaser of that stock from visiting the Ubero plantation in Mexico.

Torres was instructed to see to it that William E. Levin, whom Borges had tried to "keep from investigating the work," and who was bound for Mexico should "be taken care of properly."

Attorney Chase offered as evidence certain checks of the company to prove by the stubs that Borges used the money to purchase the splendid display of fruit which was shown to probable buyers of stock and which now forms an exhibit in the case.

Expert Accountant William J. Smith testified as to how the money for these checks was used as recorded by the stubs. All the checks for fruit were drawn during the Fall of 1905, when the stock of the company was being launched.

$6 for One Pineapple.

One stub of a check for $30, dated October 28, 1905, showed that $5 had been spent for one pineapple, evidently the monster piece of fruit which Attorney Chase described as "the largest in captivity." Five dollars more of this money was charged to alcohol "for the preservation of the pineapple. Another check, dated November 8, 1905, for $15.45 was for persimmons, limes, pineapples and alcohol, and another dated November 6, 1905, was for castor beans and grape fruit, and still another dated November 10 was for $3.25 worth of grapes.

Mr. Smith testified that he found by the books on payment for stock by President Arthur W. Stedman, Vice-President Frederick C. Hood, Ferdinand E. Borges or W. D. Owen. The books of the Boston Ubero showed, Mr. Smith said, payments to Borges as commissions on the sale of stock over $29,000.

$4,590 Paid to Borges.

Borges received in dividends on the stock of the La Puerta Plantation Company, the company which had the contract for developing the Ubero tract, $4,590.

Considerable discussion arose over certain checks drawn by F. M. Clarke and charged to the La Puerta Plantation Company, the proceeds of which, the government claims, went to Borges, and Mr. Smith was excused from cross-examination until Attorney Baker had an opportunity to examine all the checks charged to the La Puerta company.

POSTAL FRAUD BAN APPROVED

All mail addressed to the American Promoting and Trustee Company, No. 21 Doane street, this city, will be returned to the senders stamped "Fraudulent." This was determined today, when Judge Dodge, in the United States Circuit Court, refused to grant an application made by the company for an injunction restraining Postmaster Hibbard from holding back the mail.

The highest-grade, lowest-priced clothing that bears the Union Label is Morse-made.

If it's correct, it's at Morse's.
If it's at Morse's, it's correct.

Just because blue serge is the superior summer fabric, it is the most abused cloth that's woven.

Sometimes the abuse shows in the cloth itself, the color and quality being poor.

Still oftener you'll find the abuse in the way the cloth is tailored into a suit. Notice the seams and edges of the next blue serge suit you see. The degree of experienness on the part of the tailor will quickly reveal itself, for in working at these points, as well as at the collar, shoulders and lapels, his ability is shown.

With this information to prepare you, come and look at Morse-made Blue Serge Suits, prices $12 to $25. Young men's sizes start at $10.

Single or double breasted, rough or smooth surface.

In the better grades are some handsome self-plaid effects, a novelty this season.

The straw hat you want, at no more than you care to pay, is here.

Saturday we inaugurate a sale of $16 suits at $9.90 for well-dressed men who require perfect-fitting apparel, and know by experience that a good $18 suit is the equal in style, fit, quality, workmanship and finish to the best suit a reliable merchant tailor can turn out at $25. The name "Rochester Clothing" is a guarantee of the highest type of the $16 suit.

$9.90 You can readily understand why Henry Siegel Co. is in a position to make this a bona fide offer and not a mere statement to lure you here in order to talk up other clothing. Our sales are tremendous, and the great Rochester manufacturers naturally depend upon this house to enhance their reputation and increase the demand for their product by selling at about half price their entire sample lines and surplus stocks. The concessions they make enable us to sell $16 suits at $9.90. That's the plain fact without the fancies.

Four mammoth groups of swagger suits are included in this Saturday offering. They're of the weight, the style and the fabric that men want now. You'd order the same kind of a suit if you were to go to a tailor and pay $25. This sale cannot be judged by any in the past. The variety is overwhelmingly complete—every kind of a suit that's needed and practical to buy at this time is here at $9.90—a saving of nearly one-half.

Blue Serge Suits $9.90
$16 values—cool and dressy for Summer wear—the word "swagger" was never better applied than to these Suits selling elsewhere at $18 and $20.

Fancy Cheviot Suits $9.90
$16 values—light and Summery—patterns are the swellest any house has ever shown—double and single breasted—sale will make them the talk of the town.

Fancy Worsted Suits $9.90
$16 values—Suits that express the sound business sense of the men who wear them—single or double breasted—others are asking $18.

Black Thibet Suits—$9.90
$16 values—by all means include a Black Suit among your Summer wardrobe—it's inexpensive and likely to be needed any time.

Another Sale of Kuppenheimer Suits

The reputation of the House of Kuppenheimer for equalling the finest made-to-measure clothing is so well known and so pertinently borne out in the suits that men prefer Kuppenheimer suits at $14.95 and $19.50 to the $35.00 merchant tailor suits, only 150 suits in this lot.

$14.95 for KUPPENHEIMER suits—we ask you to inspect the individuality this particular line possesses—the hang of the garment—notice the snug collars—the broad shoulders, etc., the lining and trimmings—and in all the new fabrics of gray worsteds, cheviots, tweeds, cassimeres and fancy worsteds—single and double breasted—suits that uphold the dignity of swell occasions. Also blue serges. Every suit guaranteed fast color. The very best blue serge suit in Boston, at $14.95.

$19.50 for KUPPENHEIMER high-grade suits—the distinctive style will be welcomed by fashionable dressers—they are very graceful—with form-fitting, semi-fitting, semi-military effect—long concave shoulders—also full over the hips—the collar is close fitting, and the lapels are long and broad—they are made of high-grade worsteds and fancy mixtures, in double and single breasted. Also blue serges. There are suits in this lot that originally sold at $30.00. All at the one price Saturday, $19.50.

Third Floor, Essex Street Side.

LOBBYING DONE FOR JUDGES' PENSION BILL

Of 58 Lawyers in House, Representative Edwards Alone Spoke Against It.

LOBBYIST SAYS BILL SAFE

The lobbying for the probate judges' pension bill still goes merrily on, the work of seeing members being done by one Finegan, a young man employed in one of the Probate courts. Although the Senate committee on ways and means has reported that the bill ought not to pass, Mr. Finegan is confident that he has enough members of the Senate on his side to pass it, sizable. He is so confident that he has told members the bill is no danger.

Edwards Against It.

The bill comes before the Senate to-day on the question of rejection, as recommended by the Ways and Means Committee. An attempt will be made to substitute. The bill would give probate judges three-quarters of their regular salary on retirement at sixty-five or seventy. Of the fifty-eight lawyers in the House, only one, Representative Winslow U. Edwards of Easthampton, spoke against the bill. The others said they were afraid it would hurt their practice in the Probate Courts to oppose it.

Representative Edwards did not hesitate to say the bill began the pension game on the wrong end, by providing for men who have held sinecures for years and have also had the privilege of private practice. Many House members voted for this bill who did not vote for the old-age pension bill.

Refused to Take Mileage.

An act of Representative Edwards that has excited much favorable comment was his refusal to accept mileage from Easthampton, his home, for appearing before the Suffolk Grand Jury last month to testify against bribery. Many men have took all the mileage the law allowed by the most technical stretching, but Mr. Edwards insisted that, inasmuch as he was served with the summons at Boston and was working for the State at Boston, he had no right morally to take more than Boston mileage. Mr. Edwards is one member who made a personal request of Speaker Cole that the legislative bribery investigation be open to the newspaper reporters.

REFEREE MOBBED FOR HIS PRIZE FIGHT DECISION

Goodwin-O'Brien Bout, Won by Former, Ends in Riot at Lincoln Athletic Club, Chelsea.

Angered by Referee Flaherty's decision, the supporters of Rouse O'Brien, the South Boston pugilist who fought Chester Goodwin in Chelsea last night, leaped on stage, struck the referee with a chair and a riot resulted which was only ended by police interference.

Goodwin was awarded the decision at the end of the fifteen rounds fought before the Lincoln Athletic Club.

Then a mob sprang into the ring, and a fight without the rules resulted, in which many received severe bruises before the platform was cleared by the police. In the melee Referee Flaherty's head was badly cut. The police were summoned and soon put an end to the fray.

Fought Straight Rules.

The boys agreed to fight straight Queensberry rules, hit at all times, and this style found immediate favor.

They were so evenly matched that the chance takers refused to put the odds on either boy. After the first few rounds Goodwin's showing prompted several to offer odds on him.

In the opening rounds there was little action, as the boys fiddled a lot, sizing each other up. Goodwin flashed his left to the face to better advantage and O'Brien's head jolted back at the flash of Goodwin's glove. Goodwin got confidence, and rushed his right for the jaw, but O'Brien, with the instinct of the fighter, got under it, foiling the Chelsealite. Both showed lack of judgment in distance, and wasted plenty of steamy wallops. Goodwin was particularly aggressive, and when the chance at mugbiting allowed he jolted with his right to head, and had a distressful expression on O'Brien's face by the time the fourth round was due.

The real biffing began in the fourth, when the boys came into collision, and as they bounced away O'Brien reached with his right, sending Goodwin spinning. Good win came back, burying both hands into O'Brien's body.

Like a fiery tiger O'Brien came out of his corner in the fifth and planted his left on Goodwin's midsection. Twice he drove his left with stinging force on Goodwin's nose, and Goodwin's came back with one of the same kind. Honor slammed two rights on the wind, and then it was Goodwin's turn to open up the throats. He rushed and swung his right, but O'Brien ducked. He kept pushing in and drilled the kidneys with lefts. Under a fusillade of rights and lefts Goodwin drove O'Brien into his corner when the bell rang.

Going to the ninth round O'Brien put on a spurt and had the shade by it, often jabbing and hooks to the head, but the pace began to tell on him slightly and in the ninth Goodwin got in his stride.

He fought desperately in flashes, hammering on the kidneys and wedging his right hand to O'Brien's head, forcing the latter to break ground. A clout on the body in the wind region took considerable stouch out of O'Brien and Goodwin with his relentless split put rasping rights and lefts to the head and body. Goodwin twice got his right across to the jaw that almost rifled O'Brien, but he took the smashing punches without flinching, but was not any too fresh at the bell.

O'Brien on the Ropes.

O'Brien was on the ropes in the tenth with Goodwin over him and battering him down. O'Brien got a new lease of life and rammed three rights into Goodwin's body, but it did not stop up Goodwin. He rallied in the latter part of the round and had O'Brien again on the ropes, pasting him with both hands.

Goodwin was setting the pace in the eleventh, with O'Brien making a brave effort to hold his own. They collided in a corner and O'Brien got his head gashed. As they fell apart O'Brien started a swing, missed, and Goodwin caught him a right uppercut to the jaw. Goodwin was urged to go in and finish his job, but O'Brien, whose face was smeared with blood, gallantly took the gaff and stood his ground.

Goodwin with fresh courage opened the twelfth and banged with either hand on jaw and body. He tried to poke O'Brien's bad eye and started it going. It was a terrific body bombardment that Goodwin slathered on.

Then came the change in the thirteenth. O'Brien hooked with left to the body and followed to the jaw and repeated. It was all O'Brien as he rushed in without giving Goodwin a chance to set.

He kept busy in the last couple of rounds, showing wonderful recuperative powers and never letting Goodwin rest for a space of a second.

In the first preliminary Gus Lenney and John Lynch went six rounds to a draw. Fred O'Brien of Chelsea made Tim Flyan of Everett take the count in the second round of their bout.

MAKING NEGRESS INTO A WHITE WOMAN.

How a rich and notorious negress craved to be made over white so that she would be presentable at fashionable restaurants, the opera and ultra-fashionable races. And so she had the bridge of her nose altered to the Caucasian type, the negroid thickness removed from her lips, the kinks ironed out of her curly hair, but could not change her skin.

WITNESSES AGAINST OIL TRUST 'SEEN'

Standard's Lawyers Question Persons Who Are to Testify in Commerce Investigation.

INSTANCES ARE KNOWN

CLEVELAND, O., May 25.—Witnesses against the Standard Oil Company in the interstate Commerce Commission investigation are being "seen" by attorneys for the trust. Attorneys for the prosecution say they have been informed of several such cases. They will draw out the facts in the examination of witnesses and will seek to discover whether any attempts were made to influence testimony. Witnesses for the prosecution are known to have been summoned to the office of the Standard's lead ing attorney here to-day.

"One man called to the office of the attorney tells me the Standard is making an effort to impeach my character," said C. G. Lines, a former manager for the trust. "This man is an ex-employe, and worked under me. He says he refused to do so."

Witnesses made appointments with Attorney S. H. Yeiles, of the Standard, after the hearing yesterday.

LOCK CANAL IN 1814--TAFT

WASHINGTON, May 25.—Secretary Taft, appearing before the House committee on appropriations to-day, made the astonishing statements that the Isthmian canal, if a lock canal, will be completed July 1, 1914. He spoke for an appropriation of $27,000,000 to carry on the work.

CATCH CHOOK; ROBBED JULIA WARD HOWE

FALL RIVER, May 25.—John Bruno, an Italian, was arrested here last night, and Chief Hilliard has in his possession a bag of fancy articles, taken from the prisoner, which were identified by a relative of Julia Ward Howe, as having been taken from her Summer place, Melville, Newport. The police think he is the much wanted man against whom there are about twenty cases of Summer cottage robberies in Boston, Brookline, Newport and other places.

Suits For Decoration Day

Decoration Day is almost here and an outing of some kind is planned by everyone. Have you the proper clothes? Don't go unless you have, as everyone is more or less on inspection and it is expected that you will look as good as your purse permits. At our store you may select your garment, start your account and pay us weekly. Now with this advantage no one should be without proper clothing for Decoration Day. Our clothes are noted for quality, style and fit. The wide range of prices makes this store popular for all classes. Dress stylishly and pay us while wearing the clothes.

Men's Suits — The variety of styles, the choice of patterns and the quantity of suits combine to make this store the place for men and boys to order their spring and summer garments. Then, too, an account may be opened and the price paid in small amounts instead of all at once. Serges and outing suits in plenty for Decoration Day. Fine quality low prices and Unionmade. Whatever you buy the quality and workmanship of the garment will be features. $7 TO 25

Ladies' Suits — In addition to the gown you purchased for Spring you may need another one of lighter material and brighter hue. Or perhaps you may need a jacket for that outing on Decoration Day. And possibly you have not yet purchased a garment for this season. In any case we invite your inspection of our offerings. Complete, varied and splendidly assorted, our stock of fashionable garments will appeal to the stylish dresser and the reasonable prices invite a purchase. Remember you may pay us in small amounts rather than the cash. $8 TO 30

THE GREAT AUTO CHASE

CHAPTER XLI.

A Shot in the Air.

THE problem took her attention for more than an hour. She decided finally that there was only one way to solve the mystery and that was to go to Santa Boston and see the man who had been taken to the hospital.

Having once made up her mind she acted immediately, and was soon on her way to South Boston. She did not know the location of the hospital to which the injured man had been removed, and decided first to visit the scene of the fire. Inquiries later would enlighten her as to the location of the hospital.

When she alighted from a car at a corner which, so far as she could judge, was the nearest one to The Barns, she stood hesitating a moment and her attention was arrested by the insolent stare of an individual leaning against a telegraph pole.

The man was dressed in clothing of an excessive newness. From his light-colored derby to his shining shoes everything he wore was abnormal. The coat was long to the point of bagginess and a nosegay of garden-like variety was thrust in a buttonhole. The splendor of the array was set off by a scarlet necktie.

Seeing that he was observed the gorgeous individual gave an impertinent tilt to his hat, removed the cigar he was smoking from his capacious mouth and advanced to Ballara.

"Excuse me, Miss," he said, smiling pleasantly, "I don't want to be presuming, but if I can direct you anywhere I am at your service. I come pretty near to almost knowing a few things over this way."

"Thank you," Ballara replied, and hesitated. She disliked the man's appearance, but finally she concluded he was perhaps the one who could give her the information she sought. "I want to go to The Barns—the place where there was a fire."

"The Barns!" echoed Hammond, for the splendid individual was Mr. Hammond. He stepped back a pace or two and surveyed the pretty dancer in open-mouthed astonishment. "The Barns!" he said again.

"Yes, yes," replied Ballara impatiently. "Why does the mention of the place so excite you?"

"Excite me!" and Hammond laughed. "I ain't excited. It's sort of funny that a swell lady like you would want to go there, that's all.

"I don't see anything amusing in it," she replied, coldly.

"Seeing that I lost all me glad rags in the blaze," Mr. Hammond went on, "and had to cough up twenty real dollars for this layout, which, though nobby is no object to me, is pretty expensive—well, that's why I laughed."

At this statement a rush of thought flooded Ballara's brain. If what this man said was true he might have been in the barn when the fire occurred. Was it possible that he was connected with the mystery surrounding Margaret Taylor and Edward West? She decided to tolerate insolence for the purpose of finding out as much as possible.

"You can do me a service if you will," she said at last.

"Delighted," remarked Mr. Hammond in imitation of a fat person's voice. "I don't suppose a couple of soda would be out of place while we discussed it, eh?" Mr. Hammond winked. The wink more than the words aroused Ballara's suspicions.

"No, thanks," she said, "I need an account of a fire at No. 11 P street and I saw the name of Edward West as one who was rescued. I want a man of that name several years ago who I was afraid in Australia and I came to find out if he is the same one in the hospital, I

"Sure thing," replied Mr. Hammond. "I'll take you there myself."

Mr. Hammond assisted Ballara into a cab and whispered to the driver, after which he climbed in beside the dancer.

WARD'S TIP-TOP BREAD

WARD'S TIP-TOP BREAD

DISCRIMINATE - SEE THAT THE BREAD YOU BUY BEARS OUR RED, WHITE & BLUE LABEL

Do You Discriminate When Buying Bread?

Are you familiar with our TIP-TOP LABEL, as it appears on every loaf?

We can copyright the name and register the trade mark, and the government will protect both, but those safeguards are useless unless we can impress on your minds the necessity of discriminating when purchasing.

This we have endeavored to do in our advertising. Have we succeeded? Are you so familiar with our label that you know our bread by our trade mark, and that you cannot be imposed on?

There is scarcely a baker in Boston that does not manufacture and put on sale an imitation of WARD'S TIP-TOP BREAD. These imitations are bought, in a great many cases, as the genuine, by people who do not discriminate, that do not look for the TIP-TOP LABEL when purchasing. This is a double loss. The purchasers lose because they do not get the greatest value for their money, and we suffer loss both in money and reputation.

Serial numbers were issued in connection with the labels on loaves of WARD'S TIP-TOP BREAD last Wednesday, and all of this bread was sold to different persons in Boston or vicinity.

If the following labels are returned to the Ward-Corby Bakery the discriminating buyers will be rewarded as follows:

What You Ought To Drink

By E. F. D.

IN everything you eat or drink
You like to feel content
That what you eat is made O. K.—
The way that Nature meant.

So when you're drinking Lager Beer,
If you would be quite sure
You've got the drink you bargained for—
A Beer that's strictly pure,—

Don't speculate: it's hazardous;
You can't afford to lose;
Pfaff's Lager is the Purest Beer,
And that's the one to choose.

HUNTINGTON AVENUE GROUNDS, Boston, May 25.—The Boston worn was expected to turn this afternoon at the second game with the Chicago White Sox. The fans based their hopes on the report that Jesse Tannehill was again in shape to pitch.

This celebrated southpaw has been uniformly successful against the Windy City delegation for years past, and the fans figured that with any kind of even luck the former Chicago world-at last stop the string of defeats which has been lengthening every day until twenty beating have been recorded in succession.

Never was there such a record for defeats on these grounds as Boston have suffered this season.

Collins is now working every combination possible to change the luck. In yesterday's game, for example, he sent Graham in to bat for Freeman, and when the catcher reached first on Isbell's error Graham line hustled the speedy collegian, Glaze, over to the bag to do the base running.

HERRERA TO FIGHT WITH DANE TONIGHT

LOS ANGELES, May 25.—Fight talk filled the air here all day. Everybody had his opinion on the outcome of the Herrera-Nelson battle before the Pacific A. C. to-night and a great crowd will surely witness the battle.

A few days ago Aurelio Herrera made a statement in which he said that he would carry the fighting to Nelson from the tap of the gong. Billy Nolan has made an offer of a very unique wager. He says in a signed statement that he is willing to bet $1,000 that Nelson will make Herrera break ground and back up. This is strong talk, but Nolan does it in strong talk. He will also bet his money, if Herrera keeps his word the fight may be a short one. It will become a matter of hitting power and ability to take punishment.

This fight is attracting more attention than any ever pulled off in Southern California. Public opinion seems evenly divided. Those who have seen the Mexican land his right swing are inclined to think that he must bring can sudden end to the argument. Those who know Nelson's style point to his fighting mind, and say that the Dane will force such a fast pace throughout that Herrera would be too much earing for himself to think of landing his right.

MISS MACKAY WINS FROM MISS CURTIS

AUBURNDALE, May 25.—Miss Pauline Mackay, the National and Associations golf champion, still retains her title. In the final round this morning at the Woodland golf club she won from Miss Harriet Curtis, 7 up and to go, for the championship title of the Women's Golf Association of Massachusetts.

As expected, the match was a royal one and both players were equally nervy, for it was a game strain from two of the last, put and the huge gallery was simply repaid for endurance the players over the 18-hole course.

CRIGER IS DUE HERE TONIGHT

ELKHART, Ind., May 25.—Lee Criger, Boston American catcher, left for Boston this afternoon. He will arrive in Boston to-night in time to get to the game. This is a special treatment for the illness which has so far kept him out of the game this season. According to train schedules Criger will reach Boston at 7.30 to-night.

COLLEGE ATHLETES IN CHAMPIONSHIP GAMES

THE STADIUM, Soldiers' Field, May 25, pected to get a few points out of the final awards.

—Athletes representing a dozen colleges swarmed over the Stadium track to compete in the trials of the intercollegiate championships to qualify for the finals, which occur to-morrow afternoon.

The big five, Yale, Harvard, Penn, Princeton and Cornell, had the bulk of the preliminary work and most of the points were due to be gobbled by up the quintet.

Well balanced teams represented all these colleges, but there were a few individual stars coming from other institutions who were on hand to balk the big five from making a clean sweep.

Syracuse, Amherst, Dartmouth, College, Columbia, Swarthmore and Haverford ex Penn the beligerents.

Much interest centred on the showing of the Pennsylvania men in the trial tests as the team had been touted as a possible winner and the result of the afternoon's work by the Red and Blue men would give a better line on their chances in the games to-morrow.

The Yale team, under the guidance of Johnny Mack, who for the first time has filled the men for the big events, had a fighting show and made a big effort to get places in the trials.

It seemed queer to see Mike Murphy, the old Yale trainer, urging his team of protégés from Penn to do their utmost against the Elis.

There was every indication of a three cornered battle with Harvard, Yale and Penn the belligerents.

CHICAGO, May 24.—Fred Tenney's Hub warriors made their first appearance of the season against the Cubs, and the locals expected to line up with the same team they have had for the past week. It was cloudy when the teams took the field, which accounted for the little life the players displayed.

The Easterners, after losing seven straight, were out to win at all costs, and the Cubs had great difficulty holding them in check.

Tenney was ready to spring "Little Cy" Young, the best in his twirling corps, and Chance had his great college pitcher, Reulbach, on tap.

TRAINERS BUSY AT READVILLE TRACK

BY EDWARD E. COGSWELL

With the warm days trainers at the local tracks have begun to get a move on with the horses in their care. Naturally, there are no fast miles to report, but the speed has been used in the final eighths and quarters.

Fred Clark, the Providence trainer, has shown the most speed at Readville, having stepped the trotting mare Leonora, 2:12¼, the final quarter in 31¼ seconds. Henry Titter and his assistant came along the same distance with the trotting mare Chime Bells, 2:14½, and the pacer Owassia, 2:12½, in 32¾ seconds, and the last three-furlong yards both were just salting for fair.

Dobson Going Well.

Jimmy Carpenter is settled in the green pacing gelding Dobson, by Ringen, 2:06¾. He has been marching him quarters in :35 seconds, but says the colt should clock only once he could go the two miles in 2:20½ seconds just as handily. The green trotter Budd, with a trial of 2:11, is in fine shape to go out for the money.

All of the stables at Readville sat up and took notice Saturday forenoon, when Harol Palmer worked a two-year-old filly a quarter in :38* seconds so well within herself that there is no knowing how much speed she has got if the question was put to her in earnest. Several additions to the stable of Bither & Palmer are Peter B., Bradley's trotting stallion, and King Opal, full brothers of Nelly Rose, 2:18¾. Last Fall the former could trot in 2:15, and the last named in better than 2:20. Another new trainer at the Hyde Park corner is the stallion Langwater, by Joy Zenor.

McGregor, 2:07¼, the property of J. H. Daly of North Easton, Mass., while three green trotters have been sent to them by Nebraska breeder. One, by Jay McGregor, last season won in 2:20 with little preparation as a three-year-old.

The best mile that Lou McDonald has been in 2:33, but his strong stable of campaigners have been asked to step quarters along in from 34 to 36 seconds. Jack Wolf has arrived at the track with four head, the only one with a record being the trotting mare Nancy Nelson, 2:11¾, which has been entered in some of the big Grand Circuit events.

Trainer Young's String.

Trainer John Young arrived at the track last Thursday with the string of horses from the Allen Farm, Pittsfield, Mass. This string includes the trotting stallion Kalkaru by Kremlin, 2:07¾, is one of the dozen he brought down. Will Miles is another recruit to the colony. He has five belonging to J. Frank Bowland of Boston, with a stock farm in Paris, Me. The stallion American Law, 2:22¾, is looked upon to make good, as in 1904 he was started in four races over the two-lap tracks in Maine, all of which he won easily.

The fastest mile at Combination Park is 2:22½ by Porcher, 2:19½, in 8 A. Rockford's stable, and she paced the final quarter in :32¾ second. She takes his string soon to the Province to race.

Up at the Crystal Lake Park, Dover, N. H., Howard Hayden leads the trainers in point of speed, as he other sports writing he let the pacing mare Gobble Bland, 2:14¼, turn the mile in 2:24½.

It is reported that Isaac Seaton has sent Tom Phair, 2:17¾, to the New Jersey half-mile track for Trainer Charley Quiplee to be raced this season.

Monitors of East Boston want games away from home, half farce, with twelve-thirteen year-old teams, on May 30 or after. Address Frank McLaughlin, 273 Webster street, East Boston.

Notes of the Harness Horses.

It was said but for H. E. Wright of Lynn that the Grand Circuit meeting at Detroit would be injured one of its patrons in coming out of a stall, but he will be unable to get to the races before another year. His trotting colt Adrill, by Peter the Great, 2:07¼, ran into an open door, and, as he is entered in the rich futurities, and other events, he is far too good.

Horses changed hands as fast as the Boston Horse Exchange during the spring gelding Claude, by Nelson, 2:09¼, out of Cora (2:29¼). He is bred for the purpose of winning the Metropolitan Driving Club over Charles Rose Speedway.

Albert H. Merrill of Danvers makes the announcement that he has sold the 206 green horses that have taken records from 2:04 to 2:30 during the past year. Mr. Merrill is not in any other one man has done in the entire country.

The well-known trainer, Matt Dargenzo, is now in charge of the stable of the Lexington (Ky.) farm of Vaughan & Spears, the latter being known to Pasquebiac. Tom Maynard is the owner of most of them.

Jimmie Brady has found it necessary to shift Alfarven (2:05¾) back to pacing again. He was doing well on the trot, but the doubtful leg, which of 1907.

bothered him for two seasons, began to limp out the stable, though all it was decided to shift him back to pacing.

Charlie The Rider is not just turning the track up at Pleasanton, Cal., recently he worked two miles, the first in 2:09¼, and the second in 2:09¾, and the latter is going some.

The much-touted green pacing mare Easter Bonnet, with a record of 2:09¼, and a yearling a splint not long ago, which made it necessary to file and blister her mouth, and keep her out of training, so that she will not be ready to start in the 2:09 class, pacing horse-mare. Ed Mills has her at Magog, Que.

It was given out last fall that Estes, the three-year-old Ed Brown drove in 2:10 at Lexington, Ky., would not be seen this year to be campaigned on his own record, but the son of Patronage was seen to be the fastest of the get of the great sire, and has his name to stand among the nominations.

Dr. W. C. Rogers of Somerset Farm, Milton, Mass., has sent to Lou McDonald his yearling colt by Todd (2:14¾), out of the dam of Dan Patch (2:00), to be trained for the futurity stake

Jeffries to Report Fight Between Nelson and Herrera for American

James J. Jeffries, the undisputed champion fighter of the world, will give to the readers of the BOSTON AMERICAN his impressions, round by round, of the big battle between Battling Nelson and Aurelio Herrera, in Los Angeles, to-night. Besides Jeffries there will be at the ringside for the AMERICAN the famous authority on pugilism, William Naughton; Van Loan, the clever descriptive writer on sport, and Pabst, an expert in telling of the exchange of blows during a contest. The fight promises to be one of the fastest and fiercest between lightweights ever seen in this country.

FAST YACHTS IN LONG RACE ON SOUND

NEW YORK, May 24.—When the starting gun is fired on June 23, off Whortleberry Island, in the Sound, it is expected that fifteen boats will be in line to compete in the New York Athletic Club's 101-mile race to Block Island.

Three of the ocean racers entered in the New Rochelle race around Long Island to Cape May and return and in the Brooklyn Yacht Club race to Marblehead will start. These are Frank Maier's Tamerlane, W. S. Sullivan's Mopsa and G. F. Robinson's Gauntlet. Another entry is the Crowninshield-designed Bab, built by Lawley, which has been bought by C. S. King from H. S. Alford of Boston, and which will be brought around Cape Cod by her new owner and Harry A. Jackson, jr.

The others will be the New York thirty-footers, J. W. Alker's Alera and Clifford Mallory's Banzai, besides Harry A. Jackson, jr.'s, Alyce, R. W. Rathbone's Saladio, A. R. Bieling's Stanley, C. P. Granbery's Firefly, W. A. Lish's Tacna, E. C. Ray's Acushla, C. H. Maraland's Io, J. A. Mahlstedt's Cleo, John Le Boutillier's Heron and F. M. Week's Little Peter.

The race is limited to boats of thirty-one feet waterline and under. Four prizes have been offered. H. Mason Rabeg has given a $100 cup for the first prize and W. A. Marshall has donated a trophy for the second boat. The club will give a third prize and the Athletic Committee a fourth.

This contest will be the third the N. Y. A. C. has held. All the details have been arranged, including the conditions. Not more than five persons may compose the crew of a boat, and only one may be a paid hand. There are no restrictions as to the size or number of sails. Time allowance will be ten seconds per foot for each nautical mile, based on the over-all length.

It will be high water at Whortleberry Island on the day of the race at 11.50 a. m. The boats will be started at 12.30. This will make them buck the tide for a few miles, but when well started they will be helped along by the strong ebb.

BELLOWS BUYS LOUISE D. FOR MATINEE RACES

There was something doing in the private sale market at Readville track yesterday, when A. H. Merrill of Danvers, Mass., sold to R. Flowersley, Winnepeg, Man., the green pacing mare Miss Posey, by Bonny Posey, out of a mare by Raven Wilkes. She is a four-year-old and last season showed a trial mile over a poor half-mile track close to 2:15.

Fred H. Bellows, a member of the Dorchester Driving Club, bought the pacer Louise D., 2:20½. He is going to race her in the matinee and county fair half-mile tracks in New England.

H. W. Littlefield, Somerville, bought of Bither & Palmer of Readville the three-year-old pacing colt Bird Allerton, by Allerton, 2:09¼. He stepped a quarter Monday at the track in :34 seconds, and will remain in his old stall to be ready for the races.

Bither & Palmer, too, offered $2,000 for the two-year-old trotting colt Kincaid, by Hamlintage, but the owner, E. Wadsworth Wareham, Mass., turned down the proposition. He has been a quarter this Spring in 37 seconds, and is heavily engaged in stake races.

HURLBUT TRACK CAPTAIN.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., May 25.—R. E. Hurlbut, a member of the junior class, was elected captain of the Williams College track team for next year, at a meeting of the team. Hurlbut holds the college record for the quarter-mile run, and has gained distinction as a broad jumper.

TWO FIELDERS FOR PILGRIMS

NEW YORK, May 25.—It is stated by those here in a position to know that the Boston Americans have signed Outfielder Hayden of the York (Pa.) team of the outlaw league, who jumped Baltimore, but was bought from that club by the Hub team. He is a heavy hitter. It is also stated that the Bostons will get Dave Fultz, late of the Highlanders, but traded to the Athletics.

EASTERN LEAGUE RESULTS.

At Buffalo—Buffalo, 5; Providence, 2.
At Rochester—Rochester, 4; Baltimore, 1.
At Montreal—Newark, 7; Montreal, 6 (first game); Montreal, 10; Newark, 2 (second game).
At Toronto—Toronto, 7; Jersey City, 1 (second game). Toronto, 3; Jersey City, 1 (second game).

Beatrice Fairfax Tells How Two Can Live on $15 a Week

By Beatrice Fairfax

A YOUNG man writes asking if it is possible for two people to live on $15.00 a week.

Undoubtedly, in this great city there are many families of two living on that sum. It requires self denial and economy, but it can be done.

However, I would not advise a man making that salary to marry until he has been able to save something. If he can afford to marry on that salary, he can afford to save something while he is a bachelor.

If the young people are content to be satisfied with their love for each other and to indulge in no outside amusements, I think they can manage to get along.

They will have to practice the strictest economy possible.

Unless the girl is an excellent manager and housekeeper I would not advise them to try it.

She must thoroughly understand how much to buy and how to utilize what she buys.

She must be content to do without many of the pretty things she would love to have, to wear her clothes after they are getting a little old-fashioned, etc.

And there are a good many things that the young husband must also give up.

He may have to give up smoking and the days of treating his bachelor friends will be over. He may have to wear a shabby suit or overcoat.

His will have become a responsible householder and will have to count the pennies very carefully to make them last the week out.

But in return for all this, the young people will have the joy of being together and of working for each other's happiness.

The husband will have every encouragement to be sober and industrious and to lay the foundation of a successful career.

Many of the greatest and most successful men in the country married on as little, or even less, than $15.00 a week.

Their wives helped them to build their fortunes. Every man is better off for the love of a good wife. She can help him in a thousand ways.

A cheerful, economic wife is a great blessing.

With youth and health and love there is no reason why two young people should not get along capitally on $15.00.

I know a young couple who are living on that sum and they are as happy as doves in a nest.

The young man, if you have found the right kind of girl to share your fortunes, go ahead and marry.

You will be of far more use in the world as a responsible married man than as a roving young bachelor.

UP-TO-DATE HATS FOR SMART WOMEN

Walking Hat With Burnt Straw

Ospreys of Every Kind, Color and Shape Are the Very Smartestand Newest Trimming

White Hat With Snowballs

THE little close fitting walking hat is much worn this season in the dull shades of brown and burnt straw. It is very smart. This one is trimmed with folds of soft black silk and cogues, plumes.

Snowballs are a very new trimming for Summer hats. This particular model is made of fine white hair straw, trimmed with large bunches of snowballs and white and gold shaded ospreys.

Some Easy Ways By Which One Can Make Home Attractive

THERE are often things which may be done at home in the way of repairing damages or transforming old articles of furniture so that they appear quite new. The dainty chairs in white and gold are a striking example of what a little labor can accomplish. Mirror frames that perhaps have been banished to the storeroom may be made into lovely new ones by the means here described.

Whatever article which it is intended to decorate, it should be first made smooth. By using sandpaper that is little worn the roughness can be nicely removed.

Have a soft bristle or hog's hair brush and sprinkle of turpentine to thin the first coat of paint. The next should be put on much heavier. Several coats of this will be necessary, depending upon the color over which it is to be applied. Two may be sufficient or three in some cases may be required. Let each one dry before putting on the next and try to flow the paint on to make a smooth, nice surface. Avoid using a lavish amount of gold (this a dealer will supply ready for use), and let the decoration be lines, a delicate scroll work or vine, as seems most suitable.

Secure a good carriage gloss paint, and add a little raw sienna if a creamy tint is desired.

An old cane-seated chair having a light framework may be enamelled and flat cushions in silk or myrtle green plush attached to the back and seat with ribbons.

The flower stand may be of gilt bamboo or a pretty wire stand could be substituted.

Quite a unique idea for those in search of novelties is the new sea weed decoration.

This, if arranged in long sprays and trails in pearl shells, has a most "ill-mire" effect. For a breakfast or dinner table the salt-cellars, menu-holders, etc., should be of the shells decorated with the sea weed. A few lilies scattered about the table or grouped around the centre complete this beautiful arrangement, which will recommend itself to many living or entertaining near the seashore.

The problem of screening a grate which has been closed for the Summer, or of hiding the bare space below the mantel where a stove has been standing, may be solved (for those who do not happen to have and pretty screen) by the following suggestions, in a popular style of treatment.

A piece of matting of any old color that will harmonize with the other furnishings of the room will be required.

This is to be cut of the right length to make a handsome screen and hung from a rod upon the chimney beneath the mantel. In case the wall be flat, as where a stove has been in use, it may be tacked close up under the mantel and reach to the floor. It should, of course, be decorated to be at all ornamental. The lower edge may be turned up and caught in place as a hem with long, loose stitching.

Wear the Colors That Suit You Best

EVERY season the fashionable color changes. Black is worn one year, succeeded strawberry another, peacock blue another; and straight way all the women and girls of every shade of complexion wear the color in question. The consequence is that, of every twelve women, one whom the fashionable color suits is for that season pretty—does not look a fright. And for that reason, plainer than they need have been. If they would have chosen the color that was becoming to themselves they might have looked at least as attractive as nature had made them. This is what we are all called upon to do.

Of course it is not always easy for persons who have not an "eye for color," as it is called, to know what color does suit themselves. Some people there are—young, beautiful and bright when every color seems to suit; they can wear anything. But these people are very exceptional. The majority look at their best only when they wear colors which harmonize with the tints of their hair and complexion. An authority on dress gave some time ago the following suggestions as to colors likely to harmonize with people of different types. Persons who are in doubt as to the colors likely to suit them may find these hints of service:

Colors for Golden Blonde with Roseate Skin—Blue shades, from dark to light, rose pink, green from dark to light, yellows, especially gold tones; purples and blacks, grays, black, brown contrasted with pink. To be avoided—Reds.

For Golden Blonde with Pale Skin—Olive greens, mauve pinks, cream white, black, gray, amethyst, amber, stone gray, blue. To be avoided—Reds and browns.

For Brown Hair, Eyes and Skin—Reds, amber and all yellows; browns, maroon, olive green, rose pink with dark tones, very dark blue, especially in velvet, tan and cream colors. To be avoided—Light blue or medium blue, light green, pale violets or violet pinks, grays, purple, black, white.

For Black Hair, Pale Skin and Blue Eyes—White, both cream and blue, black, blue, light to dark, reds, light to dark, pale pinks, blue grays; with dark eyes, add yellows and amber. To be avoided—Pale greens.

For Chestnut Hair, Hazel Eyes and Pale Skin—Creams, black, white of creamy tone. To be avoided—Blue-white, red of any shade, brilliant yellow, medium blue.

There are two other types that may wear blue-white—the dark-brown haired with good complexion and blue or green eyes, and the black haired with pale complexion and blue or brown eyes. But in all cases it requires the brilliant rose or the lily pale complexion, and the very dark brown black or golden hair.

Wherever there is red in the composition of the hair, green (not a pale green, which should only be worn by blondes) will be becoming, and the dark shades of red will bring out the red in the hair. Light blue may be very effective, worn with very dark hair that has red in its composition, especially when the complexion is pale or very delicate.

Navy blue is the quantity of a certain tone or color that makes it becoming or unbecoming, how or lining of any given color may be very effective, which, used in a large mass might destroy the harmony.

PERFUMES AND HEALTH

PERFUMES are health-giving as well as beauty-giving, and their use, therefore, is not wholly a matter of taste. Nearly all perfumes have antiseptic qualities and are not only valuable in keeping away infection.

The perfumes which are the most agreeable to the sense are always the most helpful to the nerves. Ambergris, for instance, is positively offensive to many, yet it is said to possess a wonderful power of clearing the brain and driving away nat ural blues. On the other hand, attar of roses, with the suggestion of glowing suns and gorgeous Eastern colors, supposes to Brought cheer in times of blossoms. Their odor is narcotic and depressing, so that persons grow faint at the smell of them, and may be put into heavy slumber, as if drugged, by their odor.

Nothing is nervous people as the sound of far-off music.

The scent of orange flowers is so depressing to the action of the heart that it is not safe for one with disease of that organ to inhale it for any length of time. Reviving perfumes come from herbaceous plants largely, from the odors of mignonette, rosemary and lavender, and soothe the nerves.

The perfumes of lilies, jasmine and acacia are pleasant and soothing to a healthy sense, though delicate nerves cannot enjoy them even in their garden freshness. Brought closer in clusters of blossoms their odor is narcotic and depressing, so that persons grow faint at the smell of them, and may be put into heavy slumber, as if drugged, by their odor.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

The Trump Card

Copyright, 1906, by American Journal Examiner.

BOUGELSTEIN surveyed Delamere with a mocking smile.

"So you say this cigarette box is yours? Do you know, Freddy, I can't help thinking the police would ask you a lot of awkward questions if they found it in your possession; they might talk about stolen property."

"It wasn't stolen!" cried Freddy, desperately. "It was all a mistake. I give you my solemn word it was all a mistake. I popped it into my pocket just for a lark the night we went to Zingara's fint; then finding her murdered, all thought of the box went clean out of my head, until I was at home that night taking my overcoat off. Was I to return it then? You must know, it would be very awkward, that it was impossible. Zingara was dead, and if I'd taken it to the police, why, as likely as not they would have believed I only took it for a lark."

"I don't suppose they would, Freddy," said Bougelstein. "Those sort of lectic subtleties are so hard to explain away. I like the ten spot you took by mistake—oh, quite accidentally, I'm sure of that!—that belonged to Mr. Levi, the world's greatest bookmaker! Come, dear, if ever there was a time in your life when you needed a friend, it's now. Left to yourself, you'll be getting into trouble—you see if you don't."

"Aw with Long Nosed Teddy on the very path in one hand, and some bewitching thief sort of nitwitted property about for you to use on the other, you'll be getting into trouble. You've got to be careful, Freddie, you've got to be careful."

"You're right, old man, you're right! What shall I do, dear, dear Freddy, sweet object. "You were always a good pal. Tell me what I'm to do."

Mr. Bougelstein affected elaborately to consider for a moment.

His stood in a reflective attitude, with one hand in his trousers pocket, rattling his money meditatively; the other hand was clink seemed to indicate that he was carrying a pocketful of loose silver about.

"Vel," said Izzy at last. "I happen to know that Long Nosed Teddy is precious hard up just now. It's possible that if I put in a good word for you he'd let him he might let you off for a five, and tell Mr. Levi that he had swindled you as arranged——"

"A five!" cried Freddy with a groan; the ensuing comment of that jingling from his friend's pocket was maddening. "Why, don't you say a thousand, dear old man, at this present moment I haven't even five miserable quarters to rub——"

"Dear, dear—so bad as that?" murmured Isidore with an expression of deep sympathy, whilst he still, as if absent mindedly, turned over the clinking gold pieces in his pocket. "Vat a pity! Money can do so much! could do everything, in fact, for you at this present moment, Freddy. I know—I say it confidently—if Gus-gust could send away Teddy and Flash Sam on quiet as a couple of lambs."

"Izzy, dear old Izzy, will you lend an old pal in trouble a fiver? he blurted out in sheer desperation. "Will you? Straight, I'll pay you back!"

Mr. Bougelstein shook his head with a deprecating laugh.

"Vy, you've got some new clothes today, Freddy, I see. Very neat, too—very neat, and you look well in them. It would be a sad pity if you had your new clothes on when you next Teddy and Flash Sam; if I remember, I advanced the money for those last night on account of a leetle job you was to help me in over the Herries diamond. Correct me if I'm wrong."

Freddy, unfortunately, had no correction to make, and remained in a state of sullen gloom.

"Then as an advance payment, so to speak," went on Isidore, still with a sweet smile, "you take the money, you buy the clothes, they fit you well, Freddy—and your next wearing is to be the evening are that you have decided not to help me. But you do not offer to return the money——"

"I meant to," cried Freddy, feeling about as miserable as ever in his life before—"I meant to, on my honor, at an early date! And honestly, I couldn't help it, you know that!—I bought the clothes before I decided that the job was off, my line. It came upon me like a flash as I was coming home at the theater every togs that I might spoil your scheme, and I went back and asked you for the check at the counter to take 'em back, but he wouldn't——"

"Dear old Freddy, how thoughtful, how conscientious that was of you! It touches me, Freddy. It really touches me, such honesty as that!"

"On my honor, it's a fact without the word of a lie!" cried Freddy, more uncomfortable than ever under Mr. Bougelstein's beaming smile. "Lend me a fiver, dear old Izzy, and that'll be $10 I owe you—and whatever interest you like to add on top."

"Dear Freddy, for a man who just this moment confided to me that he has not five quarters in this hard world, you talk easily and about $60 and interest. Is it indiscreet of me to inquire how are you proposing to raise it? I rather imagine, my dear friend, that it would be your humble servant, who would have to visitie for it, Freddy."

He shook his head and paused, looking keenly at Delamere.

Brought to Bay

"So sorry I can't help you. Now, if only you'd seen your way to fall in with my views about the diamond—in the name like a society journal, as you facetiously put it—ah, in that case, my friend, the collector I spoke of, who is partial to stones, could have put quite a lot of money in your way, and then Long Nosed Teddy could have easily been got rid of." However, I don't want to teach another man his own pet lesson.

And Isidore picked up his glossy silk hat and immaculate umbrella.

He crossed over to the window and looked out.

"Flash Sam has gone, but—yr, Teddy is crossing the road and looking up at this house. Keep away from the window, Freddy, or keep back! Hang it! I don't think Teddy's tired of waiting for you and is coming to the house! Yeh, I must be off." He held out his hand. "Good-bye, Freddy. Shall I come and see you in the hospital?"

"Look here, you aren't going to leave a pal in a hole like this!" implored Freddy, beads of perspiration breaking out on his brow. "Stand by me! I stand in with you in this scheme about the diamond, can you will you get rid of this man? Couldn't he anything like a match for me? If ing an almost wellish look about the you could—if you will you, I'll stand in, I'll stand in with you!"

"You fool, you might have known you'd be a put-up job!"

A Put-Up Job

"You're right, you're perfectly right!" stammered the miserable Freddy. "I don't deny it for a moment. Then you'll allow me to help you?"

"Yes, I'll allow you to help me," said Bougelstein deliberately, with his slow smile. "Come on, Freddy, in the little schemes of my friend the collector and myself you might prove uncommonly useful."

"I'm willing to fling myself into it, whatever it may be, heart and soul, if only I feel that Teddy will leave me in peace!" cried Freddy recklessly.

"I can manage that. Then it's a bargain, Freddy?" His steely eyes were brilliantly bright. "Agreed?"

"Here's my hand upon it!" And he extended a limp, clammy hand.

"All right. I shall hold you to that. And of course one's ear is open to the voice of years after your promise—well, never mind that, Freddy! You have a good imagination; I leave you to guess what! Now I'll go down and talk to Teddy. I'll be back in five minutes."

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN

By Beatrice Fairfax

WAIT A WHILE

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am nineteen years old. About three months ago I met a young man two years my senior. We fell deeply in love with each other, and have correspondence ever since. He wants me to marry him soon, but my parents object on the grounds of my extreme youth and our short acquaintance, also their personal objections to him, and want me to give him up. I love this man dearly, and would rather die than give him up. He professes to love me as I do him. What shall I do? He has no land holdin and is able to take care of a wife. DAISY.

YOU are not too young to become engaged, but you had better not do so without your parents' consent. If the young man is sober and industrious I am sure that in time he will win your love and respect, and then they will consent to your engagement.

AN UNSISTERLY ACTION

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a girl of seventeen, and for the past two months have been keeping company with a young man four years my senior. My sister, who is older than I, and who does not live in the same place, has invited him and his gentleman friend to see her and her girl friend. I was not to know anything about this, but he told me of it. Now, will you kindly tell me what you would do, and if you think it is proper for him to call on her while he is still going with me.

CONSTANT READER

I THINK your sister is behaving rather shabbily. She should not trespass on your preserves. I do not think there is any harm in your writing to your friend her one; but if he goes again you would be quite justified in objecting. You need be told you about it, and that takes half the sting out of it.

GILT PICTURE FRAMES

GILT picture frames may be cleaned by mixing thoroughly one tablespoonful of melted soap with half a pint of boiling water; add to these a wineglassful of spirits of turpentine, and mix them well together. Apply this with a small, soft brush, and after allowing this lotion to remain on for a minute, wash it carefully off with clean water, and dry the frame in the sunshine.

PLAIN MILK TOAST

CUT a thin slice from a loaf of stale bread, toast it very quickly, sprinkle a little salt over it, and pour upon it three tablespoonfuls of boiling milk or cream. Crackers split and toasted in this manner are often very grateful to an invalid.

GIRLS, LEARN HOW TO COOK

LEARN how to cook, girls, and learn it well. You may be the wife of a girl to marry and go into a house of her own unless she knows how to superintend every branch of housekeeping? And she cannot properly superintend unless she has some practical knowledge herself.

Many girls have a share in housekeeping at home before they marry; let such superintend some department; by turns. It need not occupy half the time to see that the house has been properly swept, dusted and put in order, to prepare puddings and make dishes, that many young ladies spend in reading novels which enervate but cannot put mind and body and unfit them for every day life. Women do not, as a general rule, get pale faces from doing housework. Their sedentary habits, bad air and rooms, combined with ill-chosen food, are to blame for bad health. Let the present generation add to its list of real accomplishments the art of properly preparing food for the human body.

Beautiful Song, 10c.

"When My Little Dolly Died" is one of the prettiest, pathetic child ballads we have ever offered. For deep pathos and touching sentiment it has probably no equal. Perhaps it is the exquisite sentiment of the little girl and her broken doll are too delicate and refined to be explained adequately in words. Be the song. This regularly listed 50c. selection is printed in beautiful color, on richly polished paper, and is a regularly copyrighted piece of music. We will, however, offer it as a leader (for five days only) at the special cut price of only 10c. (SPECIAL—The above song and any two 50c. pieces listed in full—for only 25c., if you remit at once. Furthermore—in accepting this 25c. offer within THREE days from date will be given, in addition, the beautiful THREE 50c. song entitled "Sweetest Song the World Has Ever Heard." MAD DOG BITES 5 MEN; 3 DOGS IN WILD CHASE

Cambridge Police Pursue Infuriated Animal Nearly Three Hours.

Biting five men, three dogs and a horse, a dog which is supposed to have been mad gave the Cambridge police plenty of excitement and exercise for nearly three hours today. Finally the rabid creature was killed, and now the police are hunting for the dogs which were bitten.

As Sergeant James E. McNulty of Station 1, Cambridge, was passing through Harvard Square at 4.45 o'clock a big yellow hound ran at him and bit him in the leg. Giving the alarm the sergeant with several policemen ran after the dog. The animal coursed down Pleasant street, biting a horse which was hitched to a milk wagon. Then the dog bit three dogs which joined in the chase.

At Hastings square, Everton S. Jewett of No. 1 Hastings square was bitten. Ignoring its purposes the animal bit men on Hastings square and Magazine street. Running into Allston street the creature fastened its fangs into the leg of a man and would not let go. A fierce fight followed and the man and dog crashed against a doorway. The occupant of the house ran to the door with a hatchet in hand and the dog was soon dispatched.

The animal wore a collar marked "Walter H. Smith, Waltham." Mr. Smith was communicated with. The head of the animal will be sent to Dr. Hancock for examination to determine if it had rabies. The Board of Health will probably meet and re-enact the ordinance requiring all dogs to wear muzzles, the measure passed several weeks ago having elapsed.

CURED BY CUTICURA AT EXPENSE OF 75c.

"I wish to have you accept this testimonial, as your Cuticura has done so much for my baby. At the age of two weeks the head began to break out with great sores and at the age of two months his face and head were an awful sight. I consulted a doctor, who said it was nothing but a light skin disease which the baby would soon get over. He seemed to get worse, so I called another doctor. His opinion seemed to be the same. They both prescribed medicine that did not do a bit of good.

"A friend advised me to take him to the hospital, which I did. Two doctors gave me medicine that was in a liquid form. Their medicine did him no good. Nearly every day I would read a testimonial in regard to Cuticura and my wife thought she would try it, to see if it would help the baby. I got a box of Cuticura Ointment and a cake of Cuticura Soap. After using these he has become entirely cured. He couldn't seem to sleep as his face and head would itch so. What hair he had all fell out, and to-day he has a nice head of hair and his face is as clean as can be. (Signed) C. H. Evans, 19 Allston St., Somerville, Mass., June 7, 1905."

ANARCHISTS RAID BANK, 10 KILLED AND INJURED

Special Cable to Boston American.

WARSAW, Russian Poland, May 25.—A band of anarchists attacked the Industrial Savings Bank here this afternoon and a desperate battle resulted.

The anarchists with revolvers in their hands ordered the clerks and customers present to hold up their hands. The chief clerk promptly drew a revolver and fired at the intruders.

This was the signal for a brisk fusillade, during which two of the customers were killed and two customers, five clerks and one of the anarchists were wounded.

The anarchists then escaped in cabs, carrying off the wounded man.

When You have a Bad Breath

THAT'S the time to take a Cascaret.

—When your tongue is coated.

—When you have Heartburn, Belching, Acid Risings in throat.

—When Pimples begin to peep out.

—When your Stomach Gnaws or Burns.

—That's the time to check coming Constipation, Indigestion and Dyspepsia.

One single Candy Cascaret will do it if taken at the right minute, just when you first feel the need of it.

A "Cascaret in time is worth nine" later on.

* * *

Cascareta don't Purge, nor Weaken, nor waste Digestive Juices in flooding out the Bowels, like Salts, Castor Oil, "Physics."

But,—they act like Exercise on the Muscles that shrink and expand the Intestines, thus pushing the Food on Naturally to its Finish.

When the Bowel Muscles grow flabby, weak, or lazy from want of Exercise, the Food does not tickle them enough to make them act.

That's Constipation!

Castor Oil, or "Physic" will help to slide out one load of trouble, but they can't help the Cause.

* * *

In fact, they weaken the Bowel-Muscles more than ever by slackening them, and by doing work for them which they should do for themselves.

When your Arm-Muscles grow flabby, they need Exercise, to strengthen them—not a sling to support them.

When your Bowel-Muscles grow flabby they need Exercise to strengthen them—not "Physic" to pamper them.

Then carry the little ten-cent "Vest Pocket" box constantly with you, and take a Cascaret whenever you suspect you need it.

One Cascaret at a time will promptly cleanse a foul Breath, or Coated Tongue, thus proving clearly its ready, steady, sure, but mild and effective action.

Have the little 10c Emergency box of Cascarets constantly near you!

All Druggists sell them—over ten million boxes a year, for six years past.

Be very careful to get the genuine, made only by the Sterling Remedy Company and never sold in bulk. Every tablet marked "CCC." 72m

FREE TO OUR FRIENDS!

We want to send to our friends a beautiful French-designed GOLD-PLATED BONBON BOX hard-enameled in colors. It is a beauty for the dressing table. Ten cents in stamps is asked as a measure of good faith and to cover cost of Cascarets with which this dainty trinket is loaded. Send to-day, mentioning this paper. Address Sterling Remedy Company, Chicago or New York.

The Schoolhouse Fund Is a Good Object Lesson

To WORK for It Will Help Not Only the San Francisco Children, but YOUR Children as Well

A twelve-year-old girl in a New England town went to her father's grocer and bought, on credit, the ingredients with which to make "a batch of doughnuts." Her mother had taught her cooking. Doughnuts were her greatest accomplishment.

She went home and worked all a forenoon over a hot stove. She sold the doughnuts to the neighbors. With the money she paid the grocer's bill and had a dollar to spare. She sent it to the San Francisco schoolhouse fund.

There are more things to a child's education than reading, writing and arithmetic, which used to be regarded by many American parents as the sum of essential knowledge, or even than all the studies embraced in a modern school curriculum.

That child whose education includes only what is to be found between the covers of any books, no matter how large the library, is to be pitied, for the great lessons of life—most of them—are learned in the practical labors of the busy, work-a-day world.

If your boys or your girls have learned all that is in their schoolbooks, and have not commenced to learn that they have a definite, real duty to help every other human being in the world, so far as is in their power, they have not begun their real education.

We are beginning not to think much of the San Francisco disaster. It happened a month ago, and it is a characteristic of the American people to forget things easily, to make them "nine days' wonders" and then let them slip by.

Out in San Francisco they can never forget it. They have a whole city to rebuild. They have entire fortunes, wiped out in a day, to rehabilitate. They have courage, and energy, and indomitable good cheer, but an uphill labor of years confronts them.

The schools of San Francisco are closed. Not one schoolhouse in the whole city is undamaged and many were entirely destroyed. Until they are rebuilt, the children of the city must go untaught.

The suggestion that the children of New England contribute their mites to erect a schoolhouse in San Francisco was one of the best that followed the first shock of the calamity. Already more than 12,000 children have sent money to the fund. Some have given one cent, some five, some ten, a few a dollar or more. The average is rather less than ten cents.

You can readily see that the contributions must be nearly unanimous, for it takes many thousand dimes to equal the cost of a city schoolhouse.

In Vermont every school child has been officially asked by the authorities to give to the fund. In one Rhode Island city more than $100 has been raised and in another more than $40. In the other States of New England the collection is steadily progressing.

Private schools have joined the movement, including the famous Holderness School in New Hampshire, Mrs. Marsh's select school at Newport, R. I., and Colby Academy in New Hampshire.

Children are working to earn money for the fund—which, of course, is a much better thing for them than to have their parents contribute it. They are collecting bones, bottles and old metal for the junk man, digging dandelions for their neighbors, running errands for their mothers.

One little boy had his picture taken in a new baseball uniform and sold the photographs to his father's friends. He netted $2.50, which he sent to the BOSTON AMERICAN for the fund.

Another small lad received ten cents for acting as "a mascot" at a ball game, and with the dime enclosed a newspaper clipping proving the fact, and showing that the team that hired him won by a score of 23 to 1.

These are a few from thousands of instances.

These children have answered the question as to who is their neighbor. In helping the boys and girls of San Francisco they have taught themselves a lesson not found in schoolbooks, the effect of which will never be effaced. For:

"THE GREATEST OF THESE IS CHARITY."

WHY Put Burton Out of the Senate?

He Is a Convicted Criminal. The Senate Is His Appropriate Place

Joseph R. Burton, United States Senator from Kansas, has been sentenced and resentenced to nine months' imprisonment in jail and a fine of twenty-five hundred dollars. The sentence involves deprivation of the right to hold office under the government.

At this moment Mr. Burton—very appropriately—is a member of that "honorable" body the Senate of the United States.

Of course Mr. Burton fought the conviction and its enforcement. But the Supreme Court of the United States has just told him that, although he IS a Senator and a friend of "the interests," he must go to jail.

Now some of the newspapers are clamoring for Burton's immediate expulsion from the Senate.

WHY should there be this sudden demand for Burton's expulsion from the Senate of the United States?

Has not his very conviction proved his FITNESS to occupy a seat in that body?

WHAT WAS HE CONVICTED OF?

He was convicted of taking cash payments to protect the interests of the Rialto Grain & Security Company.

IF ALL THE SENATORS WHO TAKE MONEY TO PROTECT CRIMINAL CORPORATIONS AND INJURE THE PEOPLE WERE PUT IN JAIL DON'T YOU SUPPOSE THAT THE SENATE WOULD BE THINLY SETTLED?

If you are in any doubt about this read the June number of the Cosmopolitan Magazine, just issued, containing David Graham Phillips's account of "The Treason of the Senate."

You will get there a plain statement of facts as to certain Senators—the interests they represent, their servility to criminal corporations. And you will see that, instead of BEING PUT OUT OF THE SENATE, Mr. Burton might more appropriately be chosen by a large majority of the Senators as the best and fittest representative of their body.

The men that OUGHT to be put out of the Senate BY THE SENATE are the honest men, such as La Follette, of Wisconsin; Tillman and a few others, that look queer and out of place in the distinguished body, because they ARE honest.

If womanhood were like the rose,
That with a myriad blooms blows,
All fair alike in sweet intent
Of color, beauty, line and scent—
So that the gardener hardly knows
Flowerbed from flowerbed, sweetly blent,
Yet would my heart at once divine
Her presence by a secret sign,
And to that single flower incline.

The Love Letters of a Sea Serpent

By Wex Jones

Beachgate, May 10.

DARLING ALYS: Try to spend your vacation here. You can work your father somehow, even if he does hate the place as the scene of his courtship by your mother.

I have a job at last! I am to be sea serpent for the Gedgou Hotel, beginning to-morrow. Do not swim too close to me, as my contract provides that I shall at all times "maintain a terrifying aspect."

Wave your hand to me, if you'll be my own little ogly-googly mermaid. Here are a million kisses, each cross means 500,000—XX. Your lovey dovey,

JACK.

Beachgate, May 15.

DEAREST: Please be careful. I am connected by 'phone with the hotel, and the boss was ringing me up all day yesterday telling me to splash more and look fierce. How can I when I'm half full of salt water? But don't come too close again, although I should like to chase you in my fins. It looks tame.

And, say, Alys, don't swim so much with that fat chap in the green and pink bathing suit. He looks like a porpoise. Yours devotedly,

JACK.

Beachgate, May 16.

ALYS, My Owny Only Own: Don't be mad. Fatty in the green and pink may be perfectly lovely, but if you knew how hard it was to sea-serpent with due abandon when I see him with you, you'd pardon my words.

JACK.

Beachgate, May 18.

DEAR ALYS: I don't care what you say, if Percival Snippins—Fatty's a better name for him—comes into the water with you again I'm going to drown him. Even a sea serpent has feelings.

JACK.

Beachgate, May 19.

ALYS: Yes, I will. I'll choke, duck and drown Percy—oh, splash! he's with the flounders—if he comes out again with you.

JACK.

From the Beachgate News, May 20.

THE sea serpent which has been in our busy midst for the past week or ten days yesterday made a vicious attack upon young Mr. Percival Snippins, who has been very attentive to Miss Alys Doughpile during his stay at our salubrious city. Mr. Snippins managed to escape with his life after a desperate battle and staggered ashore in a fainting condition. It is rumored that our government will send one of our gunboats to kill the sea serpent, which has hitherto attracted many visitors to our beautiful city. Miss Alys Doughpile, who was bathing with Mr. Snippins, has disappeared, and it is feared she has been dragged down to the haunts of the ferocious and insatiable denizen of the deep.

From the Beachgate News, May 21.

TO-DAY we have learned exclusively that Miss Alys Doughpile, the popular society girl who was the centre of social gayety in our midst, was not eaten by the cruel denizen of the deep which has been cavorting off our idyllic waterfront. The lady, it is now transpired, eloped to be married to Mr. Jack Nocash. Mr. Doughpile, the Standard Glue magnate, was at first indignant, but now has given his blessing and a large cheque to the blushing bride and the happy bridegroom.

From the Beachgate News, May 23.

THE sea serpent has left our busy midst, and our vigilant President will now not send a warship to drive the monster away or kill it.
